Openmouthed we find them. Senses spurred to the breaking point, they realize the urgency in finding a vent for the frenzied conglomeration of sensation churning within them. No longer repressible, these emotions tumble forth in myriads of electric explosions, whirling in their transient grandeur and tumbling about in a sea of confusion.

Then from the midst of the turmoil there emerges the brainchild, fusion of imprisoned excitement and open mouths, the essence of communication.

Communication has long been acknowledged for its singularity as man's link to progress, and its numberless phases, seen constantly throughout man's day to day existence, support this distinction.

Illustrious thinkers, whose mental prowess has guided mankind through the tedious sojourn of the centuries, would be reduced to mere impotence if not for communication.

Man would dwell in oblivion, cowering in fear of his own aloneness, and darkness would prevail. But because man was given the power to employ the multifaceted gift of communication, his advancement has continued to grow.

Peculiar to the success of the developing stage of any process is the induction of new and more effective means of attaining a prescribed goal, and to obtain this source of innovation man turns to the youth of the day.

In the classroom, in the community, and in the home youth is in constant search of self expression. Be it through the adoption of a new hairdo or a whole new way of thinking, he is forever experimenting with the unknown or adding to his knowledge and insight of the familiar. In the community the role played by communication assumes a broader field of responsibility. From the incensed tranquility of the church to the strobelit murkiness of the nearest dance hall, messages of all sizes and shapes are offered through the elasticity of communication. Through the newspaper, radio, and television youth's reflection is seen as news of progress, both famous and infamous. Tournaments, movie houses, club meetings, shopping centers all play vital roles in the drama of community communication.

Personal communication is by far the most beautiful aspect of daily living. The meaning in a single glance does, in spite of its brevity, challenge the most detailed communicate ever written. The relationship of one person to another is a continuous means of communication from the first thought of encounter to the last burial rite. Never ceasing, the necessity of communicating presents itself in every aspect of man's survival, from world affairs to the affairs of the heart. Communication is the keynote to happiness, world peace, stifling of civil strife, and the conquering of life's challenges.

Thoughts communicated

Voicing his opinion through sit-ins and speak-outs, the teenager, a so-called frustrated and discouraged person striving in a world of turmoil, is heard throughout his school, community, nation, and world. The economic influence of this rapidly growing segment of our population is responsible for turning the teen's ideas into realities, his aspirations into actualities. And because of the tremendous world problems which this age group will soon inherit, they receive an unequaled education which will enable them to accept future responsibilities.

Trooper senior Dave Kelly entertains El Pasoans each weekend as a disc jockey for radio station KINT.

through Trooper domain

But the teenager is not a cold, impersonal, moneyed force altogether—he is a person with emotions, thoughts, and hopes. He may be a boy expressing supreme delight in the taste of a cold ice cream bar on a warm school day. He may be a boy fulfilling his ambition to be a disc jockey at a local radio station. Or the teenager may be a girl communicating her confidences about a certain boy to her favorite girl friend. Whatever the case, young people are striving to create a world of love, peace, happiness, and honesty in which to live.

BRENDA,
 You are really sweet and darling girl. It's been a real pleasure knowing
 you. See ya' next year.
 Good luck always!

In organizations young people acquire valuable knowledge by exchanging old ideas for new ones

Contributing to El Paso's tremendous welcome for Presidents Lyndon Johnson and Diaz Ordaz, the Eastwood High Band and Trooperettes significantly portrayed student enthusiasm over the conclusion of the Chamizal settlement between the United States and Mexico. An unprecedented relationship between the two countries was reached after months of communication made the final treaty possible. To the band, the signing of the bass drum proved to be a climatic ending of an exciting day.

Trooper organizations also require communication to accomplish their varied goals. In doing so, views ranging from sports to current fashion are exchanged, and an insight into human nature is gained. By discussing different beliefs, a unity between club members is acquired and this unity is carried by Eastwood ambassadors throughout El Paso.

expanded facilities develop Trooper skills

Insatiable hunger to express oneself is carried into the classroom where mental stimulation undergoes its daily cycle. Teachers project an idea, it is considered by the student, its merits and faults are weighed, and then after the first layer of waste has been cleared away, it returns to the teacher who in turn evaluates, discards, and returns. Assembly lines of this nature are repeated daily in classrooms across the nation, breeding place of communication.

Establishment of the first public school in 1647 was a realization of the importance of education in regard to growth, growth of mind, body, and, therefore, country. With each passing decade this relationship has been stressed by the expansion of facilities and improved methods. The construction of a new wing at Eastwood reflects this nationwide movement, and is another step in the Trooper quest for betterment.

Knowledge of foreign countries is strengthened through communication with exchange students

Duilia Zamberlan, the American Field Service student sponsored by the Student Council, arrived from Trieste, Italy to make her "home for a year" with the Jim Bowden family.

Duilia, an only child in her family, suddenly acquired three sisters, Becky, Cindy, and Debbie, and a brother, Jimmy. Becky, with whom Duilia shared a room, said, "It was surely a quick way for her to learn togetherness."

The dating system of American teens was the most surprising thing to Duilia. She said, "In Italy you don't go out with a boy, because you don't have boyfriends."

Riding horseback through the Bowden farm and the Southwest desert quickly became Duilia's favorite outdoor activity. American History is her favorite class.

Anna Kronkvist, sponsored by the Rotary clubs, attended Eastwood three months before going to another high school.

We salute a dedicated Trooper

Spending her time and energies on activities ranging from a creation of Gulliver and all his little people to decorating Trooper Hoops for all home football games to transforming the gym into a fantasyland for the beauty contest and for Eastwood-in-Elegance, Mrs. Marilyn Steele serves the Troopers with charm and grace and good humor.

Defining "Freedom" as "Disciplined liberty, liberty to do what you please, how you please, and when you please, with complete consideration for those around you," she has inspired her students with more than a desire to create art.

Concern with understanding marks her regard for the students with whom she works: she is the first to recognize their abilities and to praise their achievements, and the last to find fault with their efforts. "Mistakes aren't really mistakes," she says, "they are only a way of learning."

With the Troopers since their beginning, Mrs. Steele has taught art and crafts and English. A graduate of Texas Tech, she once was a member of a touring adagio dance team, and for three years taught mentally disturbed children arts and crafts. The mother of five children, two of whom are members of the Troop, married to an engineer, she also finds time to sponsor Entre Nous, a sophomore girls' club, and Brush and Palette.

Because of her faith in the goodness of teenagers, because of her belief in their ability and talent, because of her dedication to the Troopers above and beyond the call of duty—the staff of Salute 1968 is proud to salute:

Self-communication fulfills the Troopers' need to recognize individual goals, thoughts, ideas

Neither time nor place are important when need of the individual to understand himself, to communicate with himself, arises. Whether he is in the desert wilderness or the civilization of the modern classroom or the desolation of the nightmare, only self-communication can answer the problems that must be solved.

Issues must be decided, codes of morality must be evaluated, lessons must be learned, and motives must be questioned by the young people today—not tomorrow. They strive to improve the world by being wiser, maturer, and stronger—yet not one thing can they accomplish until they have successfully known themselves. Self knowledge may not always be a pleasant experience, but today's young people cannot be afraid.

Kitten Cecil finds the peace and solitude necessary for creative thinking and peace of mind in the lovely desert surrounding El Paso.

Kitten's first step toward the winner's circle was being chosen as a finalist in the October preliminaries.

Most Beautiful Girl Kitten Cecil

Pretty as a picture chosen for beauty pageant theme

First Runner-up Susan Thrasher

Second Runner-up Pam Clum

Excited and surprised cries from backstage echoed Kitten Cecil's joy as she was chosen Most Beautiful Girl for 1967-68. At the Seventh Annual Beauty Pageant, sponsored by Salute, named as first and second runners-up were Susan Thrasher and Pam Clum. The girls were judged on poise, personality, choice of apparel, and beauty of face and figure.

The theme "Pretty as a Picture" was carried throughout the pageant when Kitten posed within a picture frame, designed by the Art Department, for presentation to the audience. David Perilli served as master of ceremonies, and Jody Richardson was in charge of all arrangements. While the girls changed from street clothes to formals, entertainment was provided by the Cavaliers, directed by Mr. John Prestwood, and the Modern Dancers under the supervision of Mrs. Marilyn Bostic. Steve Juen, Most Handsome Boy, escorted Kitten to her throne, where she was presented her crown by last year's winner, Jodie Ashworth.

Climaxing a month of activities, the night of November 21 proved to be an evening of anticipation and excitement for the audience as well as the fifteen contestants in the Seventh Annual Beauty Pageant. Finalists were Belinda Barcena, Vicki Greene, Becky Caldwell, Vicki Kennan, Cheryl McConnell, Sherrie Moore, Debbie Folsom, Carol Prine, Marcia Gilchrest, Linda Stuver, Cindi Gohman, and Cyndy Turnage. Each of these girls was chosen at the October preliminaries in which fifty clubs and the four classes were represented. The girls' locker room was the scene of flurried excitement with mothers and girl friends readying contestants for the formal competition.

Jodie Ashworth, last year's Most Beautiful Girl, was present to crown the winner as David Perilli read the judges' decision. Mr. Bob Bradley, principal, presented Kitten with the traditional dozen long-stemmed roses as the crowd surged forward to congratulate her.

Elected to reign over the 1967 Homecoming festivities in her official capacity as queen was Susan Thrasher. Jody Richardson and Jeanne Dreckman captured the positions of duchess, and Charlotte Johnson, Nancy Pearce, and Sue Phillips represented the Junior, Sophomore, and Freshmen Classes, respectively.

Accepting her duties as Queen, Susan presided over the Homecoming Game, and was presented with her court at half-time. Principal Bob Bradley officiated during the Coronation of the Queen and presented her with the traditional bouquet of red roses. The court also paraded around the field in a convoy of convertibles while the crowd saluted them. Susan's first official action as Queen was to release the first balloon at the opening kick-off, and after the game she reigned at the Victory Dance.

Queen Cyndy Turnage reigns over E-in-E

Elected by the student body to reign over the spring formal of the year, Eastwood-in-Elegance, Cyndy Turnage, an Eastwood student of six years, has participated in many activities. She has been a freshman and B-team cheerleader, and was also elected Sophomore Favorite. In addition to these honors, Cyndy has served as president of Yahna Phi, assistant editor of Sabre, secretary of Quill and Scroll, member of Sponsor Corps, and National Honor Society member.

Lady-in-Waiting Marcia Gilchrest, also a varsity cheerleader and Basketball Sweetheart, is active in Quill and Scroll, Epsilon Phi Sigma, and Troopers Alliance. A beauty finalist, Marcia is a member of Sabre staff and Sponsors.

The Queen and her court were featured in a special issue of Sabre, and Cyndy's election was also in the El Paso Herald-Post.

Amidst the setting of a romantic island paradise, the Eastwood-in-Elegance Queen, princesses, and duchesses were presented on March 30. The spring festival, which is the most gala event of the year, is realized only after weeks of preparation by the Art Department under the direction of Mrs. Marilyn Steele. The coronation, at which Cavaliers and Modern Dancers provide entertainment for the queen and her court, is followed by a formal dance. Refreshments and table decorations provided by the Homemaking Department add to the theme of the dance and help to make the night a fine success.

Duchesses Patsy Wright, Renee Ruelas, Muriel Jones, Becky Claycomb, Shelley Phillips, Teresa Askew, and Pam Collins enjoy the luxurious furniture at the museum.

Bob Wagner--Mr. Blue and Gold

Chosen Mr. Blue and Gold, Bob Wagner received the highest honor the faculty can bestow. In secret ballot, teachers select a student whom they feel to be representative of high Trooper standards in the fields of service, scholarship, leadership, and character.

Scholastically outstanding, Bob is a member of Senior National Honor Society and serves as president of the group. As one of three students in a city-wide contest, he is representing El Paso in a scholarship program sponsored by the Texas Society of Professional Engineers. He has also received the honor of being chosen Who's Who for the math department. Dedicating many hours of service to his school, Bob is a member of Key Club, boys' service organization. A Letterman, he has played on the varsity tennis team for two years, and was chosen Who's Who in this field, due to his enthusiasm and hard work.

As president of service organization Blue Jackets, Becky Bowden serves punch at faculty reception for newly-arrived foreign exchange students.

Becky Bowden--Miss Blue and Gold

Honored in the Salute presentation assembly as Miss Blue and Gold, Becky Bowden has been active throughout her high school years. She serves as president of Blue Jackets, girls' service club, and was chosen to represent this organization as a duchess to Eastwood-in-Elegance. As co-business manager of Salute, she has spent many afternoons fulfilling her obligations to the publication. Becky is an active member of Senior National Honor Society, and as a junior was selected Optimist Student of the Month. As a participant in Epsilon Phi Sigma, sub-junior Woman's Club, she has served as an officer. Also included in her list of honors, Becky served on the Popular High Fashion Board, and was a finalist in the Miss Date-setter Contest. She was elected treasurer of the Student Council, and represented Eastwood in state and district council conventions. Her family was chosen to host Eastwood's foreign exchange student this year.

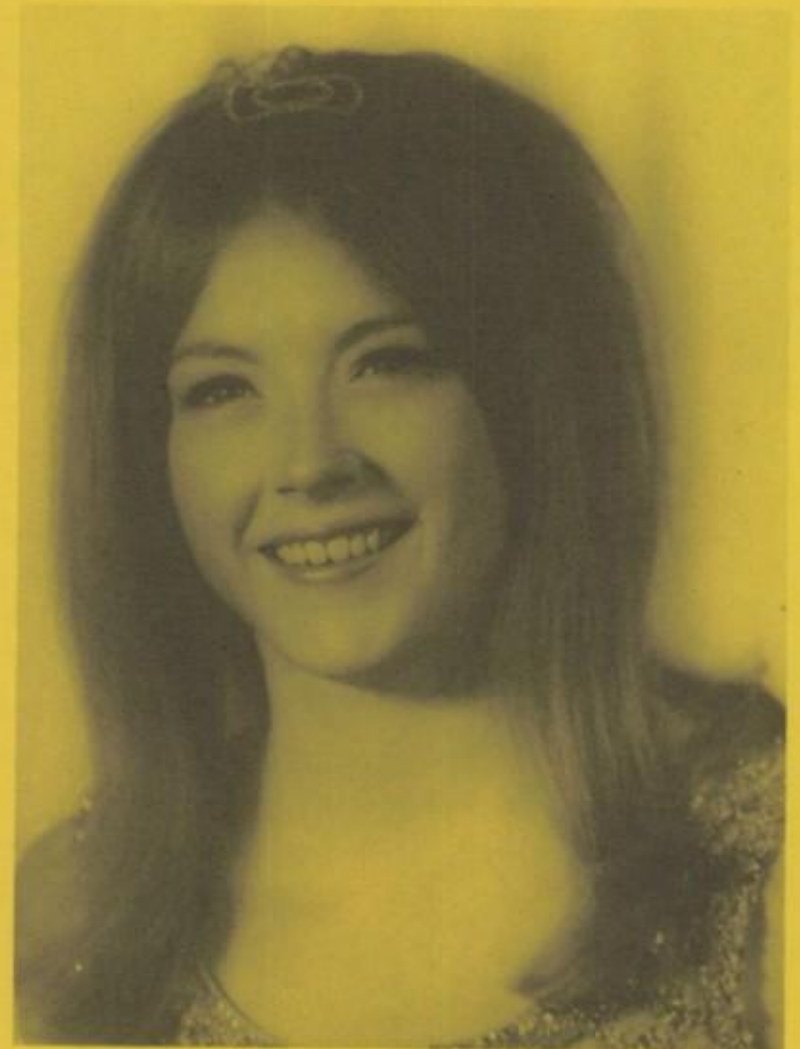

'Sabres n' Satin' honors Queen Jody Richardson

Amid the pomp and splendor of the Military Ball, Jody Richardson was crowned 1968 Sabres 'n Satin Queen. The court passed between the honor guard as the Sponsors and Cadets looked on. Jody and her court ascended to the stage where she was crowned by her father, Lt. Col. (retired) Edward Richardson. Lady-in-waiting to the queen was Cyndy Turnage, escorted by Jim Nash. Royal Visitors from surrounding high schools were present, representing ROTC departments of their individual schools. Music was provided by the Westhampton Barge at the dance following the coronation.

Jody Richardson, a member of Yahna Phi, Salute and Sabre Staffs, and Secretary of the Senior Class, is also Senior Favorite. Cyndy Turnage, Eastwood-in-Elegance Queen, is a member of Yahna Phi, and assistant editor of Sabre.

Most Popular are chosen by students

Capturing the honors of Most Popular Girl and Boy are Susan Thrasher and Steve Juen. Susan and Steve were elected by the entire student body.

Susan Thrasher is a senior and an active member of the senior girls' club Yahna Phi. She has also had the honor of being chosen 1967-68 Homecoming Queen in an all-school election. Varsity cheerleader and co-editor of Salute, Susan is a member of Quill and Scroll, honorary journalism society.

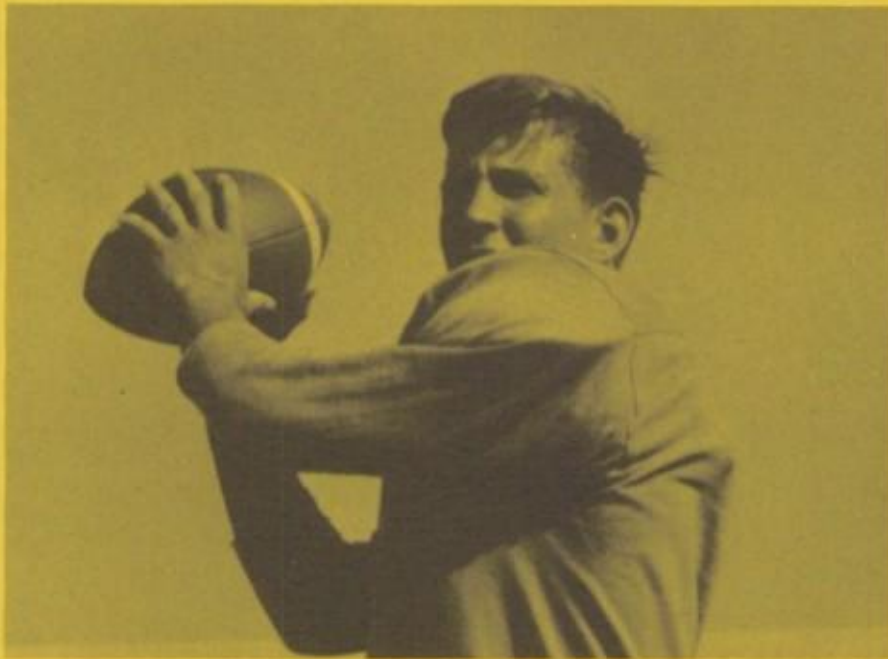

Steve Juen is also a senior and president of the Lettermen's Association. Elected Most Handsome, Steve was chosen Senior Favorite and Yahna Phi beau for this year.

Both Steve and Susan have been involved in student activities throughout their high school careers. Susan was a member of the Trooper Band and majorette during her freshman year. She has had the past honors of being chosen Track Sweetheart in both her sophomore and junior years, and Freshman Favorite.

Steve was selected Optimist Boy of the Month in his freshman year. During his sophomore year, he was elected class favorite, and lettered in varsity baseball.

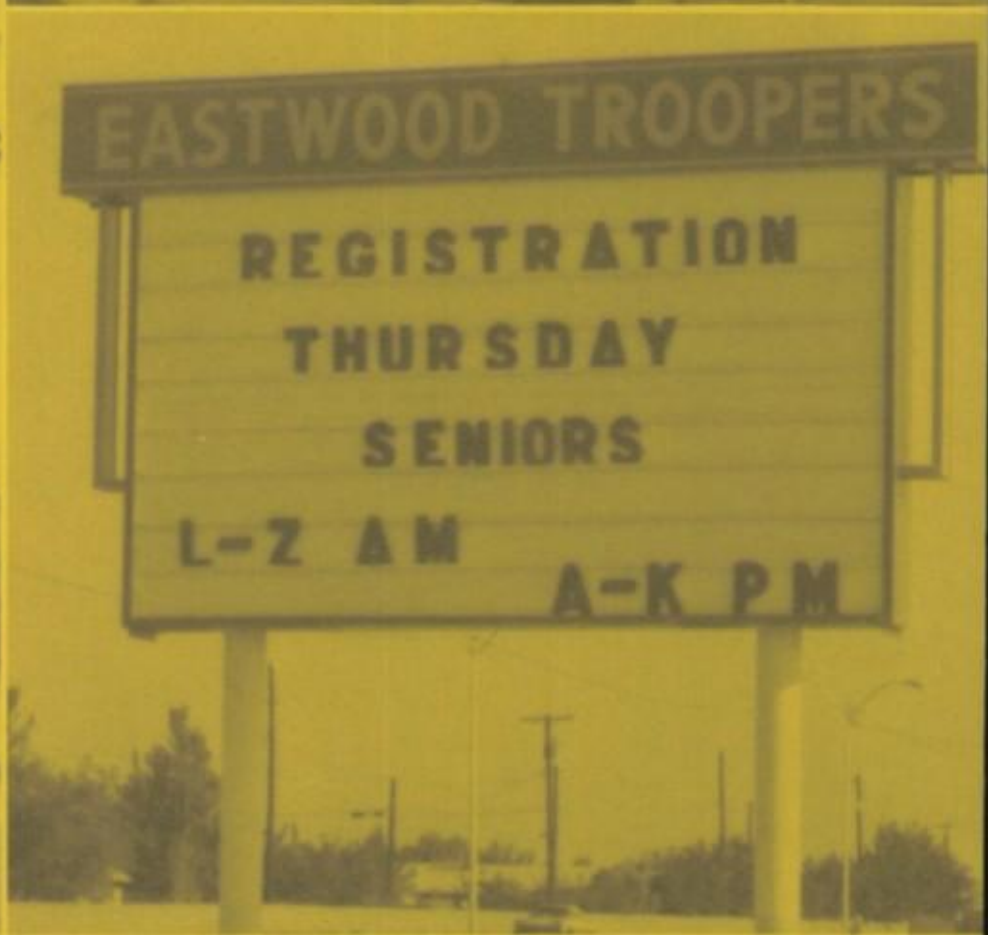

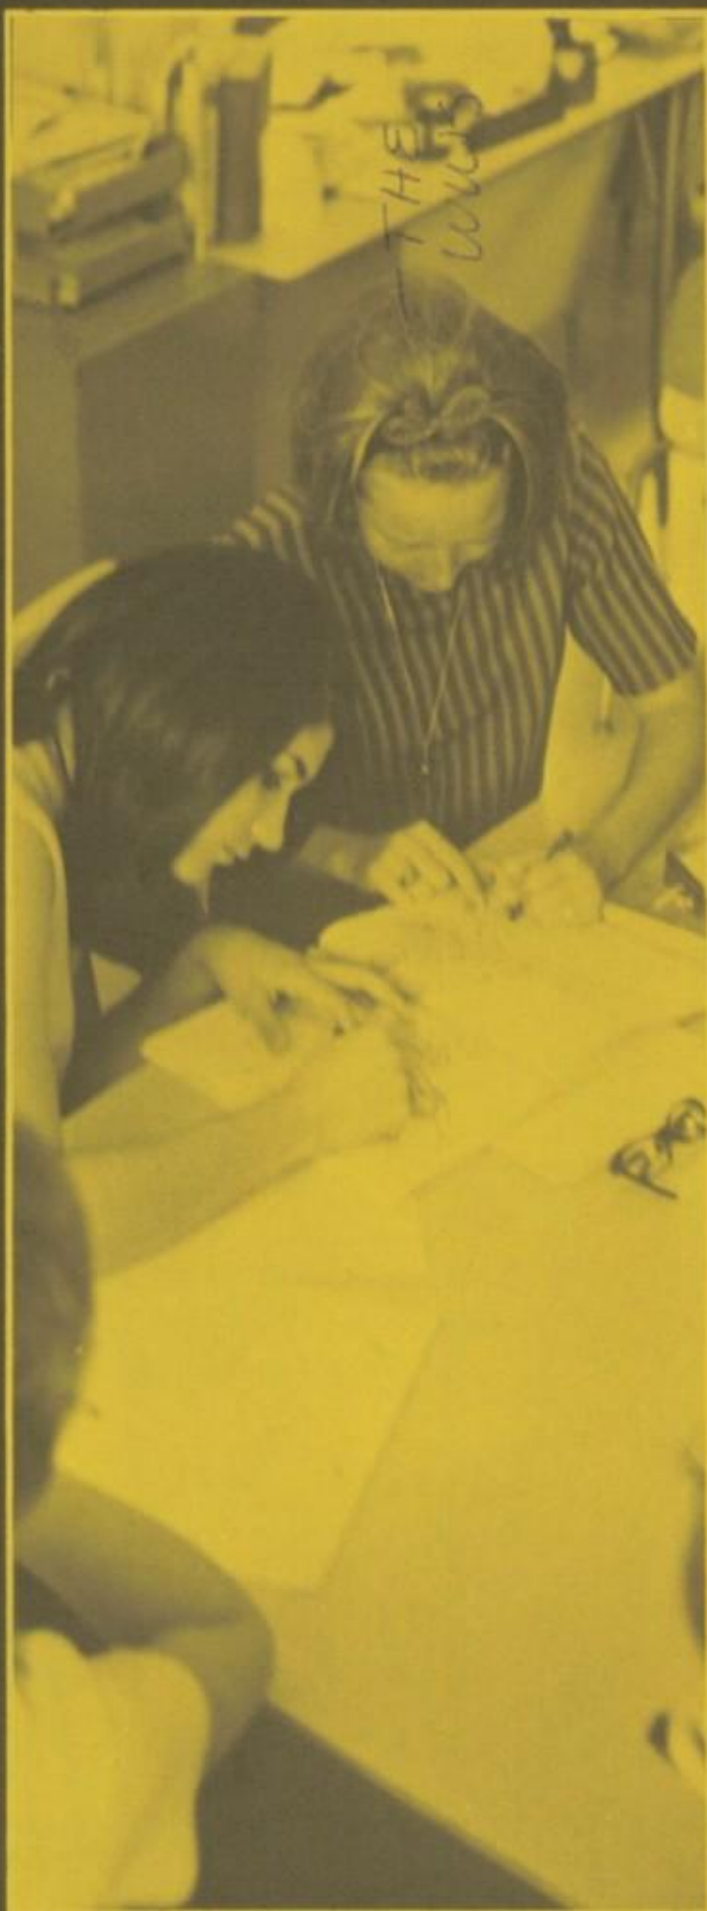

Steve Juen and Susan Thrasher study broadcasting facilities at KROD.

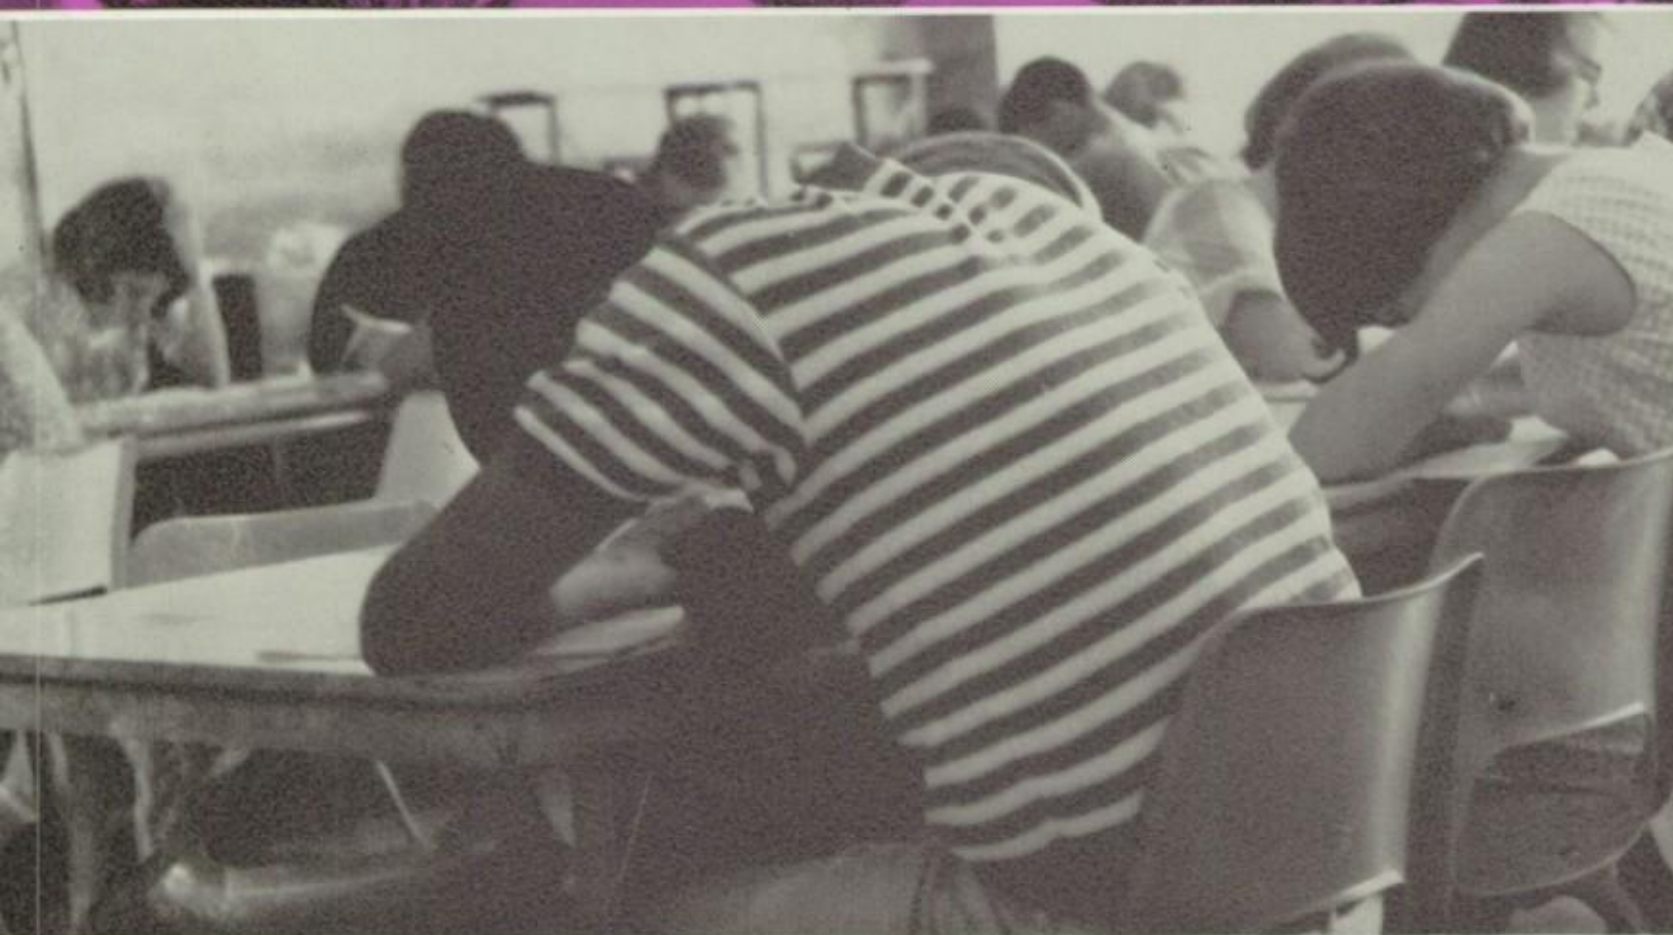

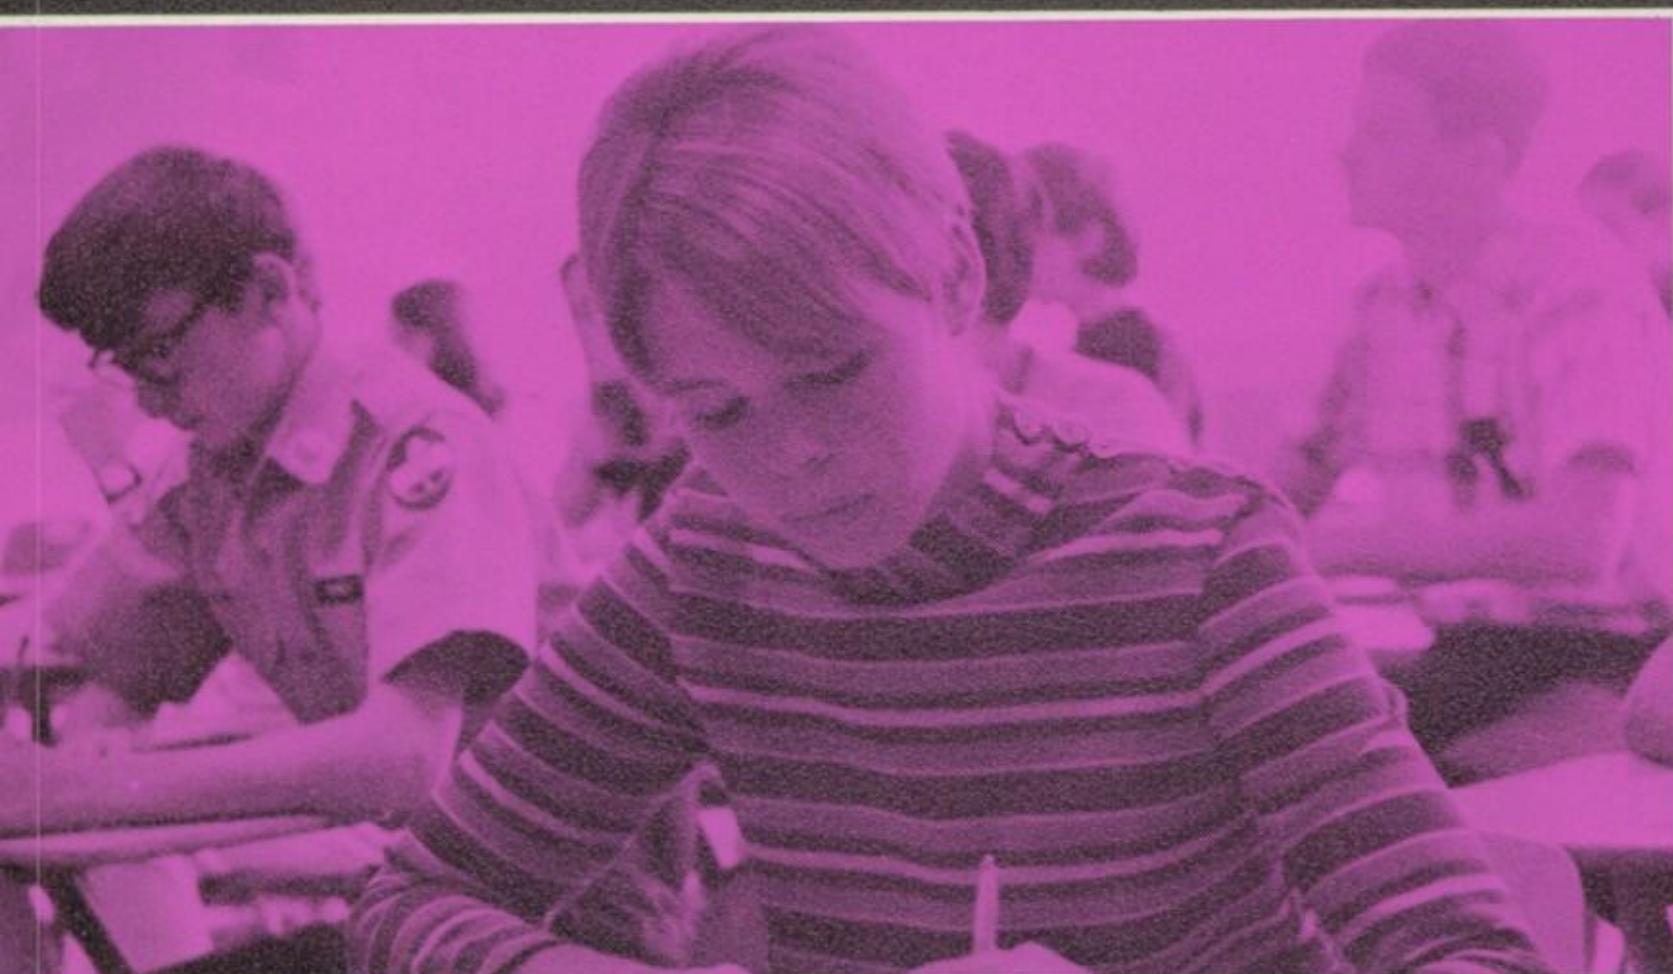

As a co-captain of the varsity football team, most of Steve's afternoons in the fall are devoted to practice.

Having worked on Salute three years, co-editor Susan readily answers queries concerning the publication.

To dispell the myth that Americans are not able or eager to master the various tongues, four languages are taught to the Troopers. Under the supervision of Department Chairman Mrs. Constance Hulbert, who teaches Spanish I-IV, other members instruct students in German, French, and Latin.

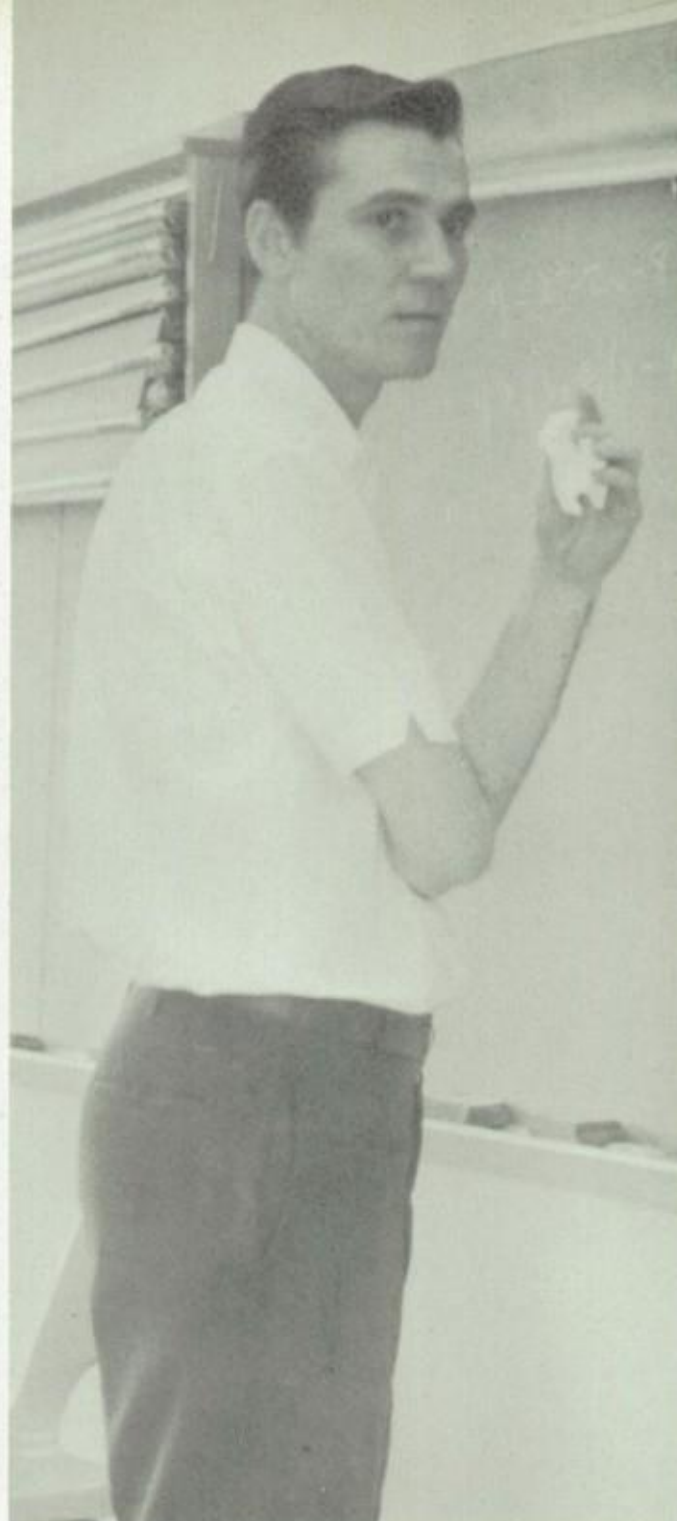

Since Spanish is the most popular foreign language among students due to the Sun City's border location, Mrs. Ofelia Crofts, Mrs. Lu Etta Johnson, and Miss Judy Boverie find their classes well-filled. in their mathematical studies for future Mathematics has matured into one of the most essential of courses, due to the ever increasing need for mathematicians in newly developed occupations.

Because of this need, the Mathematics Department has become vital to Eastwood's present curriculum.

The mathematical college route consists of Algebra I, geometry, Algebra II, and trigonometry, but two courses in related math are also offered.

Algebra I and geometry are required, but most of the students go on to trigonometry and Algebra II because these are helpful for advancement.

Due to the importance of communication in today's modern world, it has become increasingly more important to be able to write and speak effectively and intelligently.

Under the experienced leadership of Mrs. Martha Harrison, the English teachers strive to give all their pupils the necessary experience in grammar and composition as well as literature.

The average student attends English class one hour a day, nine months a year. Here is where the proper functions of the English language are learned. The student is also shown the importance of mass media though he's not aware of it. Television, radio, and films are all important sources of learning our English language and to communication.

One of the most interesting and valuable pieces is the Miller analytical balance, a device so delicate it can measure the difference between blue and red ink. Also, students now use the fully equipped laboratory that accommodates the Advanced Placement Chemistry class.

New articles for the biology laboratories consist of several stereoscope microscopes. These powerful new devices allow the biology student to observe the compound structures of an insect's eyes, and the delicacy of a fly's wing.

Finally, there is the general science division of the Science Department where students are introduced, briefly, to all areas of science. Included are an introduction to biology, usually taken in the sophomore year, and examples of the coming chemistry course, to be taken in the junior year.

Due to the great number of students at Eastwood this year, the only division able to take a field trip is physiology.

Girls' PE includes volleyball, track, tennis, baseball, square dancing, soccer, basketball, and archery. Twice a year the girls in Modern Dance and PE participate in a physical fitness program in which they are graded on their ability or their lack of ability.

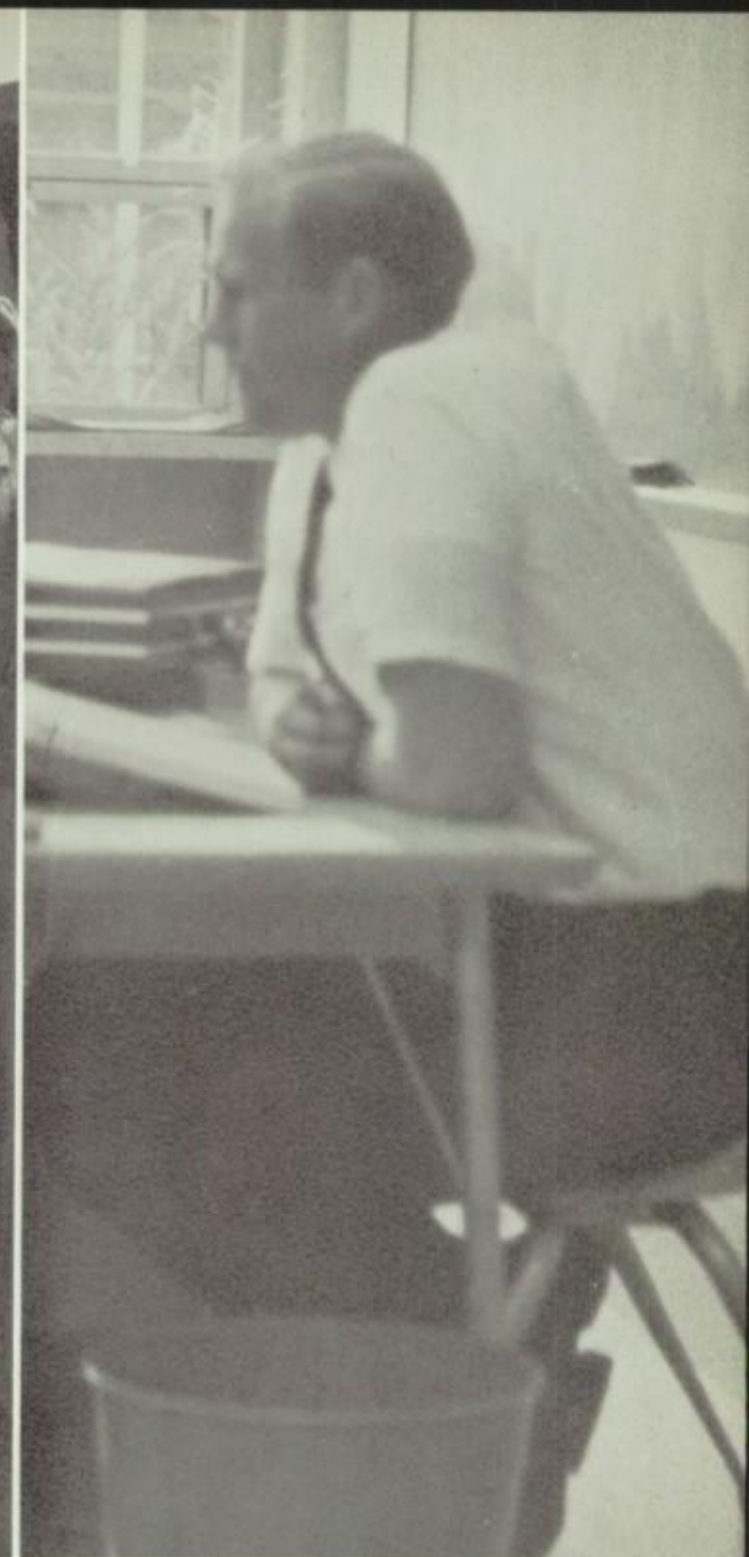

Miss Carolyn Collinsworth is the second of the three PE teachers. She assists Mrs. Birkhead and instructs the girls in PE I. Mrs. Marilyn Bostic teaches Modern Dance and Advanced Modern Dance.

Fitness Program set up during JFK's Administration

Among those few courses that boys usually don't mind taking and even at times tend to enjoy is Boys' PE. Boys' PE is divided up into four full year courses of which the first two are compulsory. Besides taking basic PE, the boys must take health for these two years. A normal day in the average PE class consists of numerous exercises, regular physical activity, and usually a cold shower at the end of the period. This year the boys have been blessed with the arrival of various kinds of new equipment. This equipment consists of parallel bars, a horse, horizontal bar, and new tumbling mats. These will help them to gain a great deal of coordination. This year has been especially productive because of the newly organized intramural program and recently initiated gymnastics instruction.

Julie Bushman—Library Who's Who

With consideration for the ever increasing search among young people for a broader spectrum of knowledge, schools and teachers are finding more and different ways to make the student "whole."

At the heart of any school is the library for research and, as at Eastwood, the training of future librarians. Mrs. Lee Firth and Mrs. Inez Haraway act as teachers and leaders to knowledge.

Students with vocal talent find the additional training and practice with Mr. John Prestwood practical and enjoyable.

Mr. Kenneth Jones, band director, develops the talents of his students and prepares them for future performances.

Training tomorrow's politicians and toastmasters is Mrs. Sharon Tyson's job. She is also responsible for chaperoning and directing her students at contests.

Colonel Jody Richardson. The last of Sgt. Kittilsted's duties includes coaching the varsity rifle team. Cadet Lt. Colonel David Shelton is captain of this group.

Sgt. Mike Psalto took over as drill team instructor in 1967. This is a boys' precision marching group with Cadet Major Jim Nash as drill team commander.

The Reserve Officer's Training Corps (ROTC) started at Eastwood in 1962, then known as the National Defense Cadet Corps (NDCC).

Maj. John T. Bracey is Senior Army Instructor for the YISD. He has held the position since YISD was introduced to the ROTC program.

Mrs. Sammie Fourmy wasn't one to complain as she moved to her new post in front of Mr. Bob Bradley's office, also a new addition.

The counselors moved into their larger and better equipped facilities which include several informal counseling rooms. Mrs. Patricia Self, a new counselor, arrived just in time for the mass moving operation.

The only one who was content with her old office was the school's nurse, Mrs. Frances Dixon.

Students attain high honors for their dedication, ability

National Merit finalist James Zeman earned the title only after rating exceptionally high on a series of aptitude tests including the SAT and the NMSQT.

Without the aid of teachers who devote hours working with their students, extra-curricular awards would not be achieved.

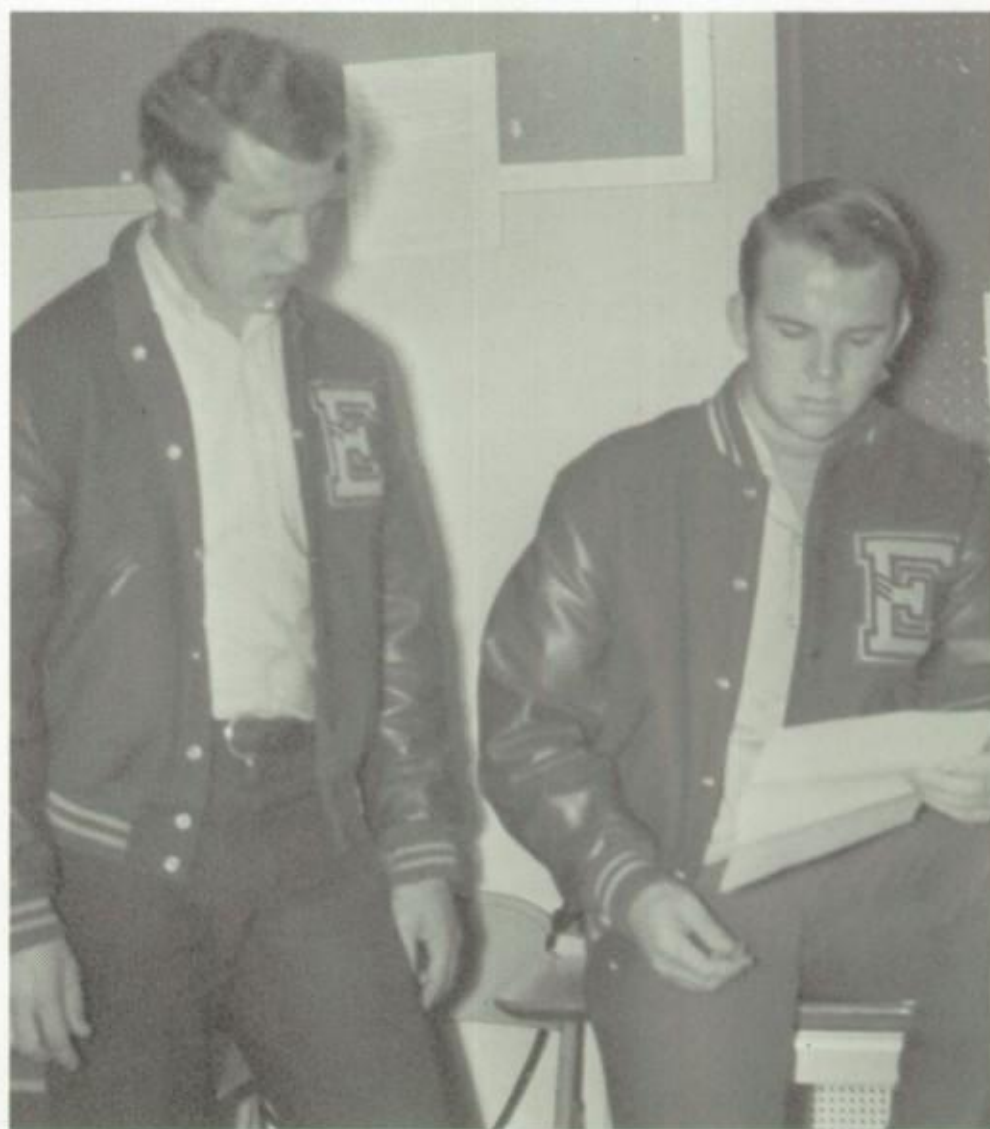

DECA and speech contests involve hours of preparation and research before the final presentation is made.

Developing tomorrow's novelist, playwright, and poet requires the teacher whose inspiration motivates creativity in the student's mind. The creative writing teacher must also be objective enough to offer constructive criticism.

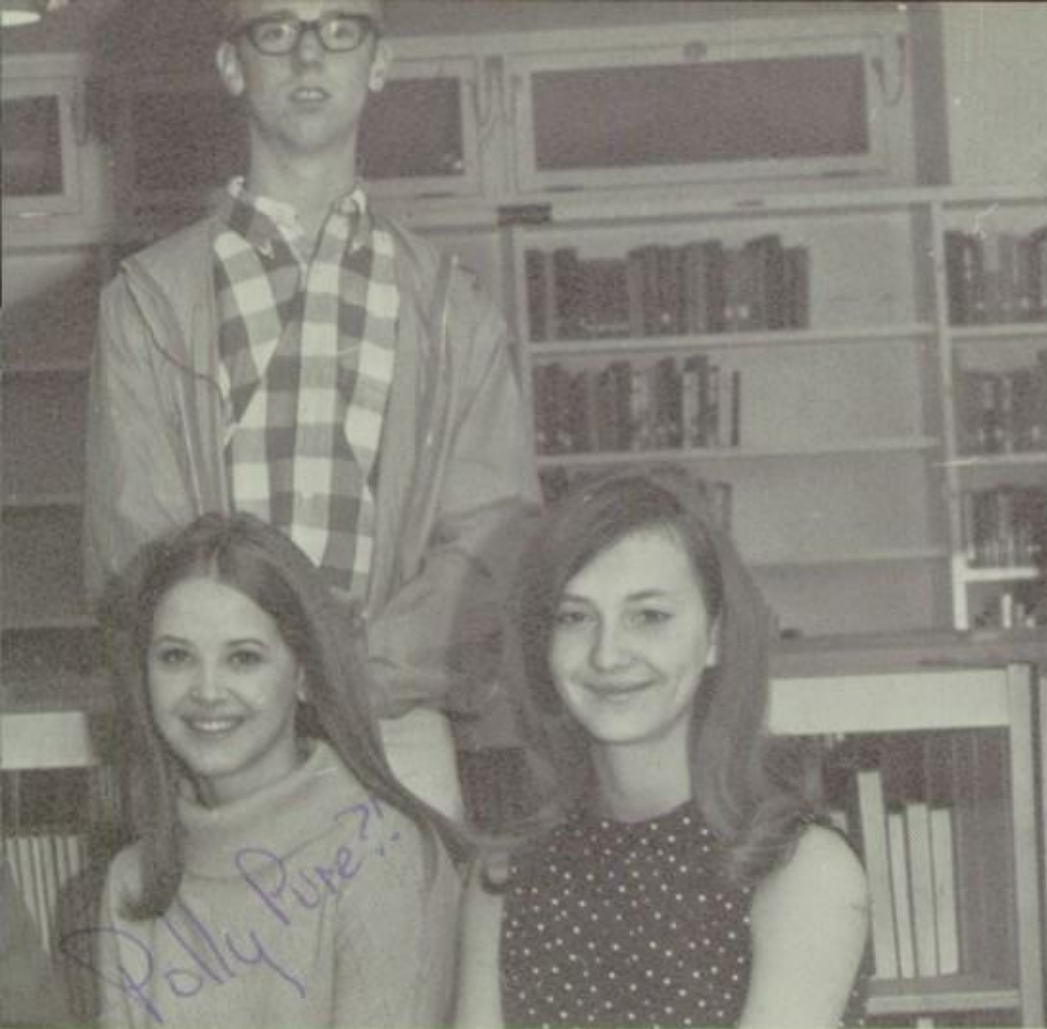

Athletic endeavor plays an important role in the development of an individual, and without the determination of both player and coach excellence could never be attained or acknowledged.

Organizations

Knud Salveson serves as Student Council President.

From August till June members of the Student Council are busy with the work of planning and organizing the activities of the student body. Beginning with the sale of Student Activity Cards at registration, through the planning of Homecoming, and the collection of canned goods for the needy of the area, until Eastwood-in-Elegance, and the election of new officers, there is seldom a free moment for the council members.

Responsible for the publication of the student directory, The Garrison, and the Trooper Calendar, members sell ads to pay for the cost of publication and work with 1,425 cards which represent people—in alphabetical order.

Immediately upon election, the new officers attend the annual Texas Association of Student Councils Convention held every year in March. Last year the group gathered in Laredo for the exchange of ideas and problems which gives impetus to the work of student council officers.

Mr. Bill Crow, assistant principal, acts as chaperone, adviser, sponsor, and "shoulder-to-cry-on" for the Student Council officers and members.

Pom Pon girls dance enthusiastically to spark spirit

Trooperettes acknowledged for Presidential reception

Pretty, proud, and prancy—it would be difficult to imagine a half time show without the winning smiles and excellent marching routines skillfully executed by the Trooperettes. Highlighting the half time activities, however, is only one of the jobs of this precise marching group. In their diligent strife for perfection, the Trooperettes have won both local and national recognition.

On October 28, the Trooperettes assembled at International Airport for the awaited arrival of President Johnson. The President and his wife were welcomed by the uniformed parade of girls. While en route to the ultimate decision, on the Chamizal dispute, the President was able to shake hands with many of the girls.

Assistant leaders for 1967-68 are Vickie Savino, and Linda Hooper. These girls perfect the routines.

Rita Morales, Aileen Bailey, Suzanne Stockton, Claudette Yarbrough, Vickie Moore, Glenda Bien display parasols that added glamor.

Sun Carnival appearance

Under subtle red lights in the cafeteria, the Trooperettes sponsored their annual Spaghetti Dinner. Each year, this dinner is held preceding the beauty contest.

During the month of December, an awards banquet was held by the Trooperettes and Pom Pons to honor the outstanding members of the groups. Other memorable activities were the Lulac Parade and the Veterans Day Parade.

Highlighting the year's activities were the Sun Carnival events. The precision marching group was honored with an invitation to perform during the Sun Carnival Basketball Tournament. Dancing during the Sun Carnival Parade was also a memorable and unique occasion in the events of the year for the high-stepping Trooperettes.

Long hours of practice bring Trooper Band successful

Strutting proudly is Majorette Donna Oakley.

Striving for perfection, the Trooper Band has gained, through faithful practice and enthusiastic leadership, numerous honors and city wide recognition. Each morning the band members come to school at 7:30 to practice their marching and playing. Diligent practice led them to national recognition when President Johnson came to visit El Paso for the Chamizal Settlement. This historical event awarded the band with many hand shakes from the presidents of both the United States and Mexico. Both presidents and their wives honored the band by signing their drum head as a token of their appreciation.

The annual Lulac Parade and Veteran's Day Parade were among the varied events in which the band participated. They also won several awards at city wide marching and playing contests. During the invitational Las Cruces marching contest, the Trooper Band was awarded a superior rating for their marching ability.

Under the excellent supervision of Mr. Kenneth Jones, and under the expert direction of Drum Majors Scott Persons and Greg Kligman, the Trooper band also participated in Sun Carnival events when they marched in the annual parade along with other bands from local high schools.

Sweetheart Donna Oakley was elected by the band members earlier in the year and was presented to the audience at the half time show of the final football game of the season between the Troopers and the Burges Mustangs.

Leadership, scholarship, service, and character are the qualifications for members of National Honor Society. During the first induction of the year, to the theme of "An Impossible Dream," previous National Honor members tapped twenty-three new members, proving dreams of National Honor are not impossible.

Promoting world brotherhood, the members attend the annual National Conference of Christians and Jews. Eighteen Christmas activities with faculty breakfast Blue Jackets, a girls' honorary service organization, undertakes several projects each year to benefit both community and school. Under the direction of co-sponsors, Mrs. Bonnie Lesley and Mrs. Jean Payne, a tea was given honoring Duilia Zamberlan and Anna Kronkvist, foreign exchange students. October and November found members ushering at football games, and managing the concession stand at basketball games. A breakfast for the faculty was prepared by the club members before the holidays. With funds from cake and candy sales, another trophy case and additional girls' blazers were purchased for the school.

To serve their community, Blue Jackets collected for the Cerebral Palsy Fund, and co-sponsored a program presented by the Narcotics Bureau.

ROTC Sponsors practice for spring drill meets

Adding pep to assemblies and bringing recognition to Eastwood, ROTC Sponsors, under the guidance of Sergeant Theodore Kittilsted, diligently practice second period to learn the art of military marching. With the aid of Lt. Col. Jody Richardson, the senior girls prepare for military meets which involve all Ysleta ROTC groups. Special assembly days enable the girls to perfect their precision drills. From the ranks of the Sponsor Corps, girls are chosen by cadets as members of the Military Court, and Drill and Rifle Team Sweethearts. by participating in parade practices and assemblies

From its small beginning in 1962, the ROTC program now includes 230 student cadets. There are four companies which encompass 144 cadets. The other various additions include the rifle team, the drill team and the ROTC Band. The ROTC Band is composed of the male members of the Trooper Varsity Band. In addition there is a company consisting of thirty-three sponsors. The drill team, a precision marching group adds color to the various meets. The school's rifle team, also a part of the ROTC program, participates in rifle meets held at various El Paso and Ysleta schools.

Discipline, precision set pace for ROTC Department

While providing fun and physical exercise, the Military Science Department concentrates on launching young men into possible lifetime careers. High school ROTC precedes a possible college course in ROTC.

At Eastwood High School, military instruction includes the color guard, rifle team, drill team, Sponsors Corps, and the basics of military conduct.

The color guard participates in all special assemblies and football games. They are also a main part of each of the practice parades. This year's rifle team has won a majority of their meets with other schools in the Ysleta School District. The drill team participated in meets throughout the city.

The cadets chose the rifle team and drill team sweethearts from the Sponsors Corps who are selected by the faculty. The 1968 drill team sweetheart is Dannette Webb, and Elena Porter was chosen as the rifle team sweetheart.

reating them to a gracious week of royalty

You're the apple of my eye,
The reason, I don't know why.
I guess it's the little things you do.
So here's an apple just for you.

This was the poem found on top of each teacher's desk along with an apple during the Future Homemaker's Teacher Appreciation week, October 8-13. The week began with the presentation of a flower arrangement for the teacher's dining room. Tuesday marked the apple giving, and Wednesday Valerie Payne, FHA president, gave a talk about FHA. Thursday Vickie Moore gave a talk to the school declaring that day as courtesy day for the teachers. On the last day of the week, the girls put cookies and other goodies in the teachers' lounge.

At one of the monthly meetings, which are set up by the state, on mental health, financing, jobs and careers, and individuality, Dr. Philip Himelstein from UT El Paso was a speaker.

Assisting the librarians and aiding teachers in various chores such as filing, grading, and watching classes during teas given for the faculty are only a few of the projects of the Future Teachers Association. They have also expanded their projects by founding a Junior FTA at East Point grade school to inform students of careers in the teaching field.

Money making projects of the club include selling candy in September, sponsoring the jail at the Halloween carnival, and holding the annual talent show.

The district convention in January held at UTEP was the biggest event of the year. Mr. FTA, Mario Munoz, and Miss FTA, Karen Bower, represented the club at this meeting by giving speeches on the topic "Invest, Innovate, and Improve." Members also attended the state-wide convention held at Dallas in the spring.

Job experience offered VOE business students

Operating as a club, Vocational Office Education is a new course organized for those interested in business careers. Members are offered practice in typing during class, and also learn to operate all types of business machinery including calculators, adding machines, and duplicators. Proper etiquette, personality, and appearance are stressed.

Sponsored and instructed by Mrs. Louise Baird, business students aspire to the ideal of preparing "to do a better job when on the job." Each member is required to work a minimum of fifteen hours a week at a regular job. In this way, learning is a first-hand experience in no way restricted to the classroom and the teacher's instruction.

Newly-formed Health Careers Club does volunteer work

Preparing for a future in medicine, members of the Health Careers Club learn latest medical techniques by visiting hospitals and clinics, and participating in lectures given by local doctors. Formerly the Pre-med and Future Nurses Clubs, the newly-joined organization is sponsored by Dr. Walter Autrey, M.D., Dr. Bill Banta, D.D.S., and Mrs. Frances Dixon, school nurse. Members also do volunteer work for the Cancer Society, Heart Association, and various hospitals. Selling key bracelets and pins is the club's main money-making project.

One of the most informative events attended by members is the Trans-Pecos Health Careers meeting held at UTEP in March. Discussions on every phase of medicine enable students to decide better which branch they will enter.

Roman feast celebrated by Latin Club in spring

Selling pencil stubs and finding the way through an impossible maze is only a part of the Latin Club's hectic initiation each fall. Each horror of this activity, however, is forgotten at the spring banquet held in honor of a Roman feast day. Appropriate decorations and costumes make this event as realistic as possible, and create an interest in the manners and customs left to the western world by Romans and Greeks.

Besides promoting an interest in our classical heritage, the Latin Club donates a large portion of its treasury to the foreign exchange fund.

Undergoing the traumas of initiation, Margaret Aguilar and Myrna Wheatley prepare for their fate.

DECA Students attend Odessa, Houston competitions,

During the year DECA students are taught service, selling, and retailing by Mr. Maurice Bartram, their sponsor. The purpose of DE is to teach students to work cooperatively with others and to create better adults for tomorrow.

The students attend school for only half a day and receive two credits for the course. Officers are: Landa Quintana, president; Dave Kelly, vice-president; Linda Hendon, secretary; Dave McWatters, treasurer; and Karen Bricker, reporter.

To raise money for their competitions in Odessa and Houston they sold candy, fruit-cakes, and pocket calendars. Other activities of DE include the hanging of streamers on car aerals before pep-rallies, making Homecoming decorations, and DE had the Coin Toss booth at the Halloween Carnival. DECA takes several field trips every year. This year trips were taken to the Federal Reserve Bank, the El Paso National Bank, Peyton Packing Company, and the El Paso Natural Gas Company.

Coach J. C. Gotcher learns how to sew his own costumes as Trooper Follies night gets closer.

Ambitious and fast working, the Eastwood Lettermen's Association carried out their traditional money-making and service projects for the year. With their usual zest they sold luminarias, football and basketball ribbons, and displayed a beautiful show of grace and charm in the annual follies. Under the able leadership of sponsors C. J. Gotcher, George White, and Alden George the ELA has contributed heavily to the Foreign Exchange Fund. They also provided letter jackets for the whole coaching staff. The annual camp-out topped off another productive fun year for ELA.

Eastwood Lettermen's Association membership is one of the greatest honors, that can be given a boy. During the '67 fall season twenty-two boys, juniors, seniors, and one sophomore were given the honor of being inducted into ELA. The requirements for Lettermen are that the boy must letter in any varsity sport. He must work at this sport and do the best he possibly can. The new members must go through the thoroughly surprising experiences of the initiation planned carefully by the "old" members of the Lettermen.

With the prospect of a 1-AAAA District Title in 1967, the Eastwood Varsity squad fought hard to the end of the season. Being undiscouraged by a series of non-district defeats at the beginning of the season, the Troopers sprang back, despite injuries to several key players, to spur a real threat to the other schools in district play later in the season.

The Troop racked up a close two-win and three-loss district record while going three and seven for the season. The young team, lacking experienced seniors, will come on strong next season under direction of an able coaching staff.

"Always get your man" is a primary rule for any Trooper lineman. It is because of the robust, never-give-up attitude of the linemen that the backs somehow manage to get across the goal line.

Most fans never notice the linemen, but instead only see the back in his futile attempt to gain yardage. Unless there is a line that can block, the efforts of these backs are without cause.

In the opening game the Troopers traveled to Carlsbad, only to be set back by the Cavemen, 27-0. Next, one of the top New Mexico teams, Alamogordo, invaded the Trooper domain, and gave the Brigade a blow, beating them 33-6. Spirit was at a high, but points scored were at a low, as Eastwood was shut-out by Permian, 47-0. The Troopers scored their first points on the road at Artesia, but lost it, 38-12.

A high-spirited Trooper team thrilled a capacity crowd by beating the Tigers of El Paso High, 40-22.

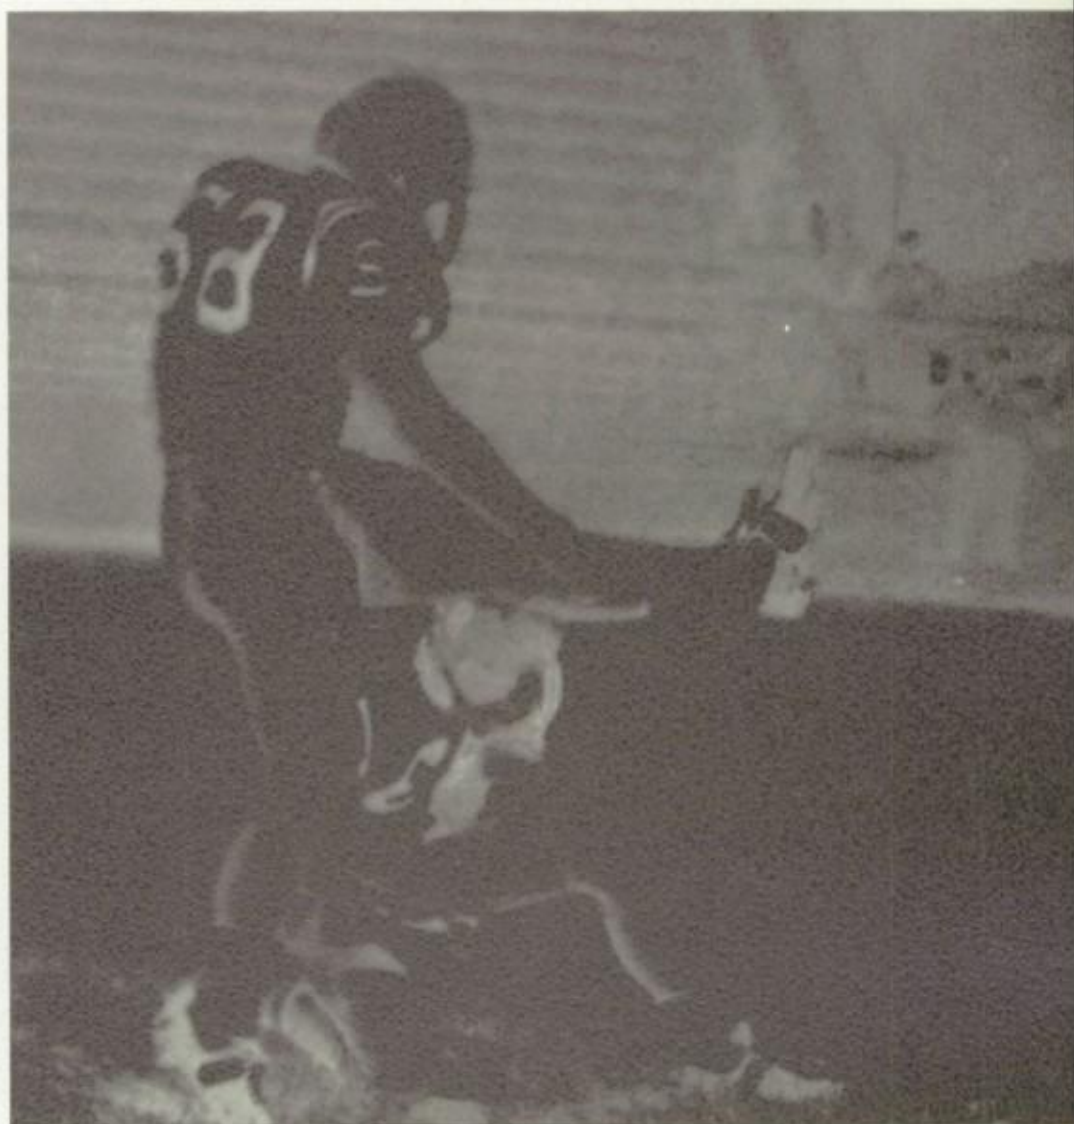

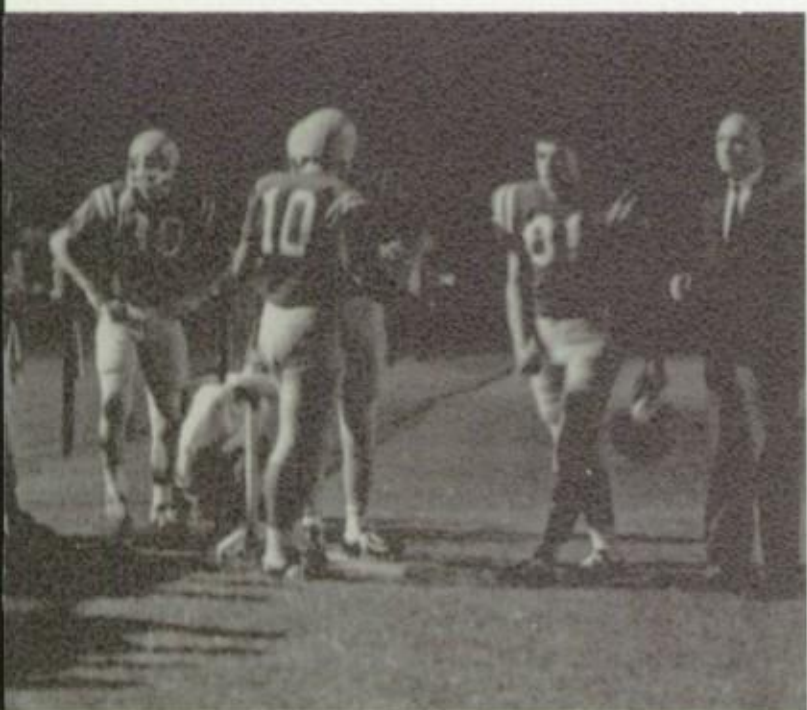

Riding high-on-the hog, Eastwood collected 24 points during the first half against Ysleta, and rode in from there, beating the Indians, 30-24.

The Jefferson Silver Foxes invaded Trooperland next, and handed the Blue and Gold its first district loss, 12-8.

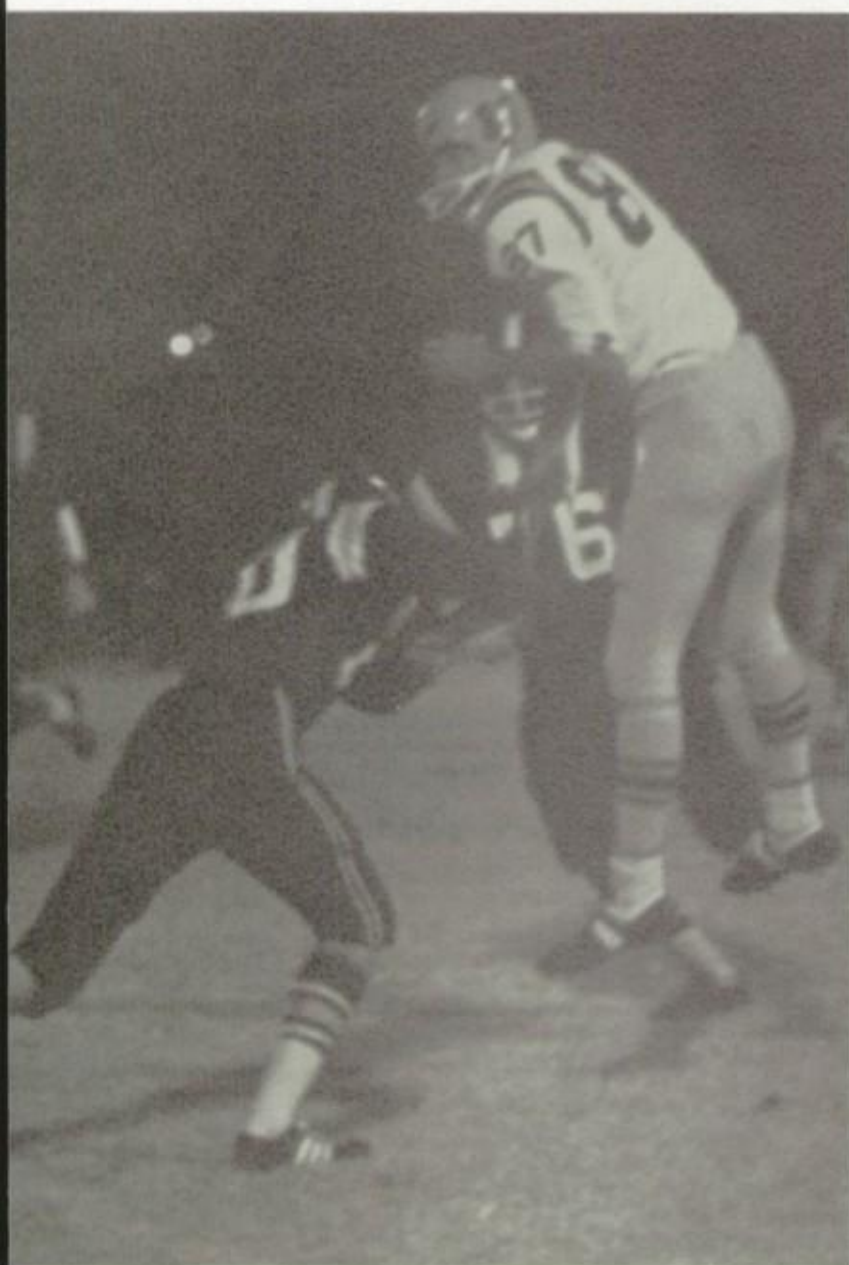

Bel Air lost their first game to an Eastwood eleven, 26-6, placing the Troop in a tie for first place.

Numerous injuries hampered the attack of the Troopers against Bowie, as the Bears fought cold weather and determined Troopers to victory, winning 22-14.

Bob Travis, David Marsh chosen for All-District

Bob Travis

Voted to the District 1-AAAA Southern Division All-District football team this year were two members of the Eastwood varsity squad: Bob Travis, at defensive halfback, and David Marsh, at offensive center. Both players were selected on the basis of their keen abilities and die-hard spirit on the football field.

Bob Travis, who was also an outstanding senior offensive halfback, was a transfer from Laredo in his sophomore year and was an outstanding player on the B-team during his junior year. He was also a co-captain on this year's team.

David Marsh, a big junior center, was selected to the All-District squad on the basis of his outstanding play previous to the Bel Air game, when he was forced to sit out the rest of the season due to an injury. Marsh was one of the few sophomores on the varsity squad last year.

Both players were honored guests at a banquet held for All-District players from El Paso high schools this spring.

Freshmen, the seed of any football team, have to conquer the hardship of inexperience to even hope for a successful season. Unfortunately, this inexperience was evident as the Freshmen received the "ax" in all but one of their hard-fought games. Despite this rather unimpressive one win and six loss season record, the Frosh squad displayed the spark of spirit evident in all Trooper football players.

Roundballers tie for first; tough defense shocks opponents

Mark Cardon wins the tip-off against Silver City.

Defense was the name of the game as the Trooper roundballers stormed to a 16-7 season, best in school history.

Coach Bobby Lesley took one of the shortest teams ever to come out of Eastwood and produced a strong defensive squad, led by his super guards Stu Stout, Frank Burton, and Andy Morris. Leading the offensive unit were Eddie Huff, Gary DeLong, and Doug Amundson. A great deal of the Trooper success came from the rebounding power of Gary DeLong.

Eastwood finished the season in a tie for first place, along with Ysleta, and Jefferson, all with records of 7-3. The seven district wins top any previous team's season record, with the pre-district games being icing on the cake for the fans.

During district play, the Troopers, who were pre-season favorites to come in in last place, tied Jefferson and Ysleta for first with a 7-3 district mark.

In the first game the Troop downed Bowie in an exciting game, but were then stunned by Ysleta in their next encounter. After the Ysleta game the Brigade stormed to six straight wins, against Burges, Jefferson, Bowie, Ysleta, and two over Bel-Air. With a chance to take district, the Troop entered the Burges game with a 7-1 mark, but were upset. The loss threw the Troopers into a tie for district with the Indians of Ysleta. The final district game was with Jefferson, and the Foxes belted the Troopers.

In the last encounter of the season the Troopers lost a heartbreaker to Ysleta in a play-off game, ending a chance for a district championship in basketball.

Optimistic frosh complete disappointing season

This year the freshmen basketball team displayed a great deal of optimism, which was required of the young players to cover up the grief which resulted from a rather disastrous season. A final victory helped cheer up the disappointed frosh, who lost many of their games by a margin of just a few points. However discouraging this may sound, the freshmen rounballers actually had some very promising material in their outstanding players, David Lucky, Armando Dominguez, and Billy Thomason.

Looking at this situation another way, it is easy to see why the freshmen didn't win very many games. Due to the crowded conditions in the gym, they sometimes had to come to practice at seven in the morning, or sometimes they weren't able to practice at all. Taking this into consideration, it would not be justified branding the freshmen as "losers" because of their record.

With the arrival of baseball season, Eastwood has always seen hope of a district championship. Although there never has been a district title for the team, there have been many close calls. Each year the team, under the direction of Mr. J. C. Cotcher, is backed by a staff of strong hitters and hard-throwing pitchers. This season saw the return of many of last year's starters, which is a very important factor in constructing a successful team, along with some new prospects from last year's B-team.

Thinclads get in high gear, produce speedy runners

Under the direction of Coaches Robert Jackson, Todd Ware and Alden George, the 1968 edition of the Eastwood track team proved to be tough competition to all opponents. As in the past, the weightmen have carried the load as far as scoring points. Leading shotputters are Don Burt, David Perilli, and Jack Rogers. In the discus, Mike Mosher, Bob Daigle, and David Marsh took top honors.

Charles Gaucin and Mike Hancock lead the distance runners, while Will Means and Gary Hoff were shining in the hurdles. Juan Borrego, Ronnie Baca and Carson Bullard lead the 1968 sprinters.

Upon the arrival of the school year, although golf competition doesn't begin until spring, Troopers can go out to the community golf course during any day of the week and see members of the golf team working to perfect their game. Every afternoon these ardent young golfers venture out to Del Norte or Horizon Golf Course and work on their putting, drives, chip shots, and on the overall improvement of their games.

Combining his work on the golf team and his duties as varsity basketball coach, Mr. Bob Lesley doesn't have as much time as he would like to have to work with the golfsters. The team has good material in the returning members, Carey Womble, Bob Highsmith, Bill Moody, and Mark Timberlake. The school year 1967-68 probably was the best year for sports since the school was founded in 1961.

Intramural sports also played a big part of the sports year. The PE groups got together and formed two track teams and two basketball teams. Each of the sports was put into two categories, Class A for the sixteen and under boys, and Class B for the older boys. The other schools participating in the games were Bel Air, Ysleta, and Parkland.

February 1 brought a group called the Fabulous Magicians. The Magicians played the Faculty Wrecking Crew, giving the older men of the school a chance to show off a little. A capacity crowd of over a thousand enjoyed the antics of these stars and the shooting of the faculty.

Exes return to play part in Homecoming activities

Beginning early in the week of October 15-20, with the decoration of halls by various girls' clubs, and ending Saturday night at the annual dance, Homecoming proved once again to be a well-remembered time full of excitement and thrills. Exes swarmed through Eastwood halls during the National Honor reception Friday afternoon, commenting enthusiastically on the expanded facilities. Trooper spirit, shown at the annual pep rally and "Burning of the E" held the night before, also impressed Exes favorably.

A new activity, the car decoration contest, was well-received, and boosted spirits. But all of the action was anticlimactical to the Homecoming game and dance at which Queen Susan and her court reigned.

Perched atop a blue convertible, Duchesses Jody Richardson and Jeanne Dreckman anxiously await greeting the crowd Homecoming night.

Troopers join forces in yearly Halloween activity

Salute and Sabre worked together and managed the shave-a-balloon booth which turned out successful but messy.

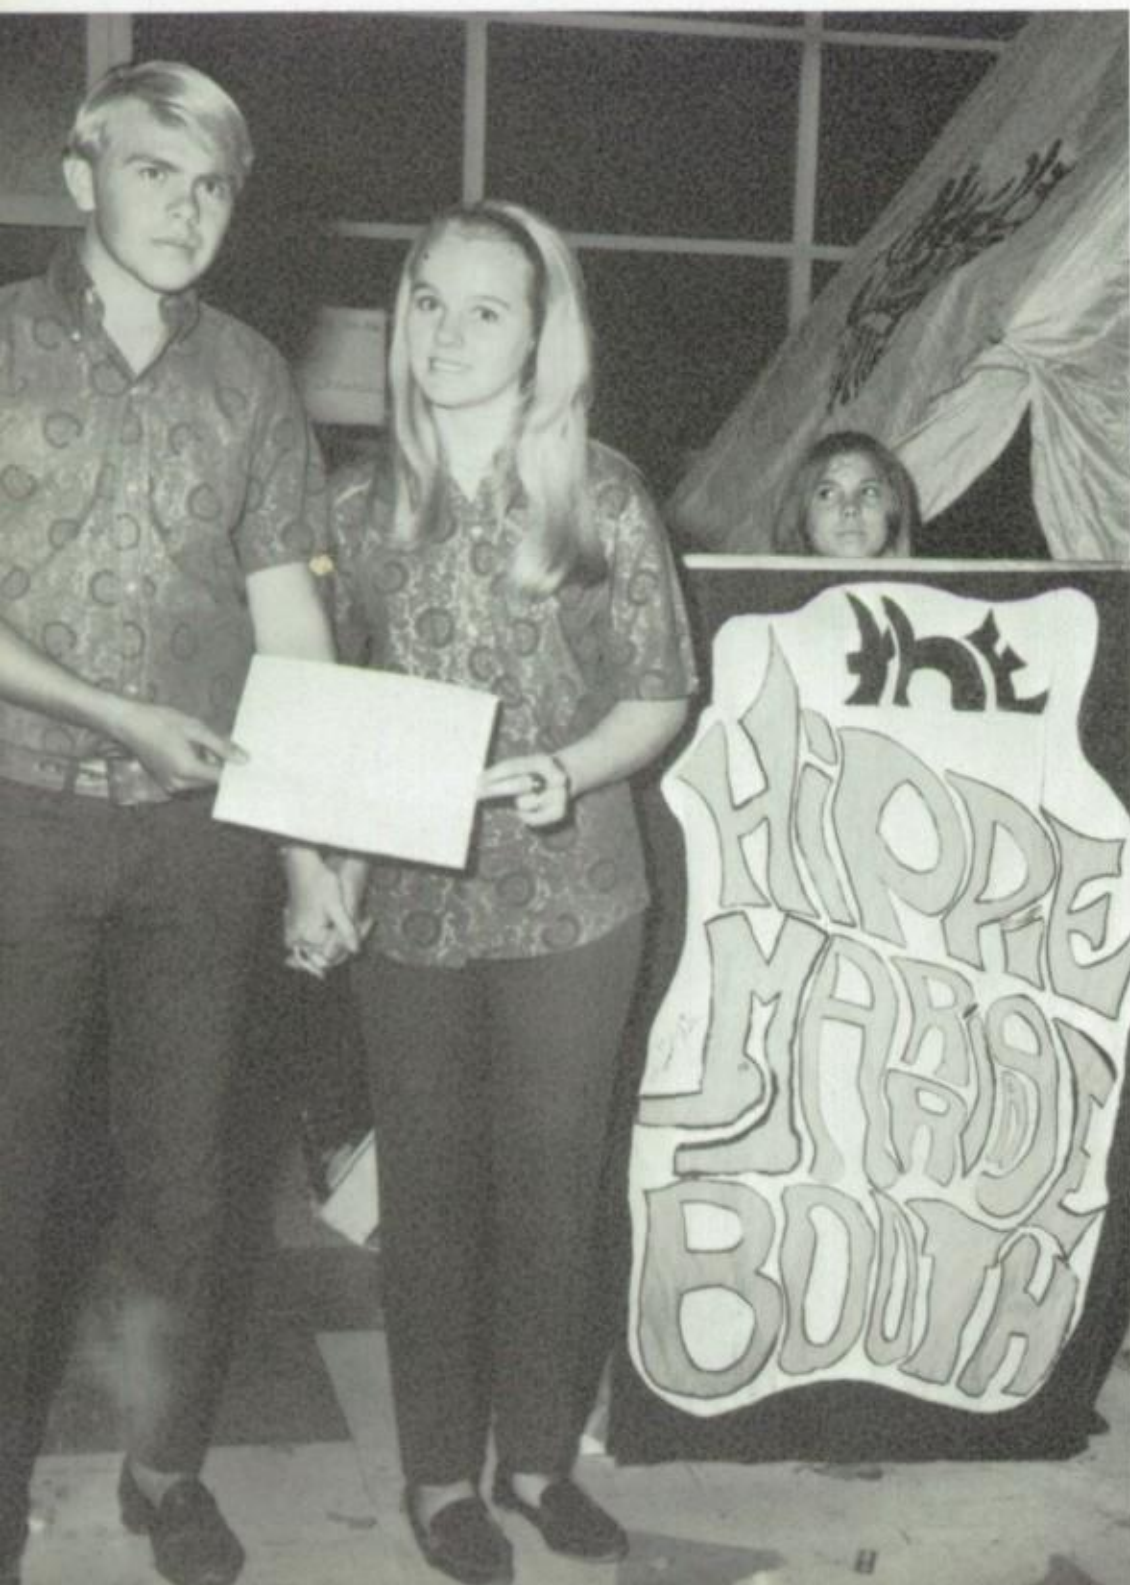

Ghosts, ghouls, and witches were all but forgotten in the flurry of activity accompanying the annual Halloween Carnival, an economic enterprise which also provides Troopers with an outlet for the frolicking natures which seem to surface then.

Organizations, through the Carnival, are able to raise funds which, in turn, will be used for the benefit of the school. But, perhaps more important, a spirit of cooperation and friendship develops as each club strives to create an unusual and entertaining booth.

David Shelton's frightful grimace proves as entertaining to co-sufferer Jim Nash as to patrons of the ROTC Officers' booth.

Hippie-oriented Halloween Carnival termed success

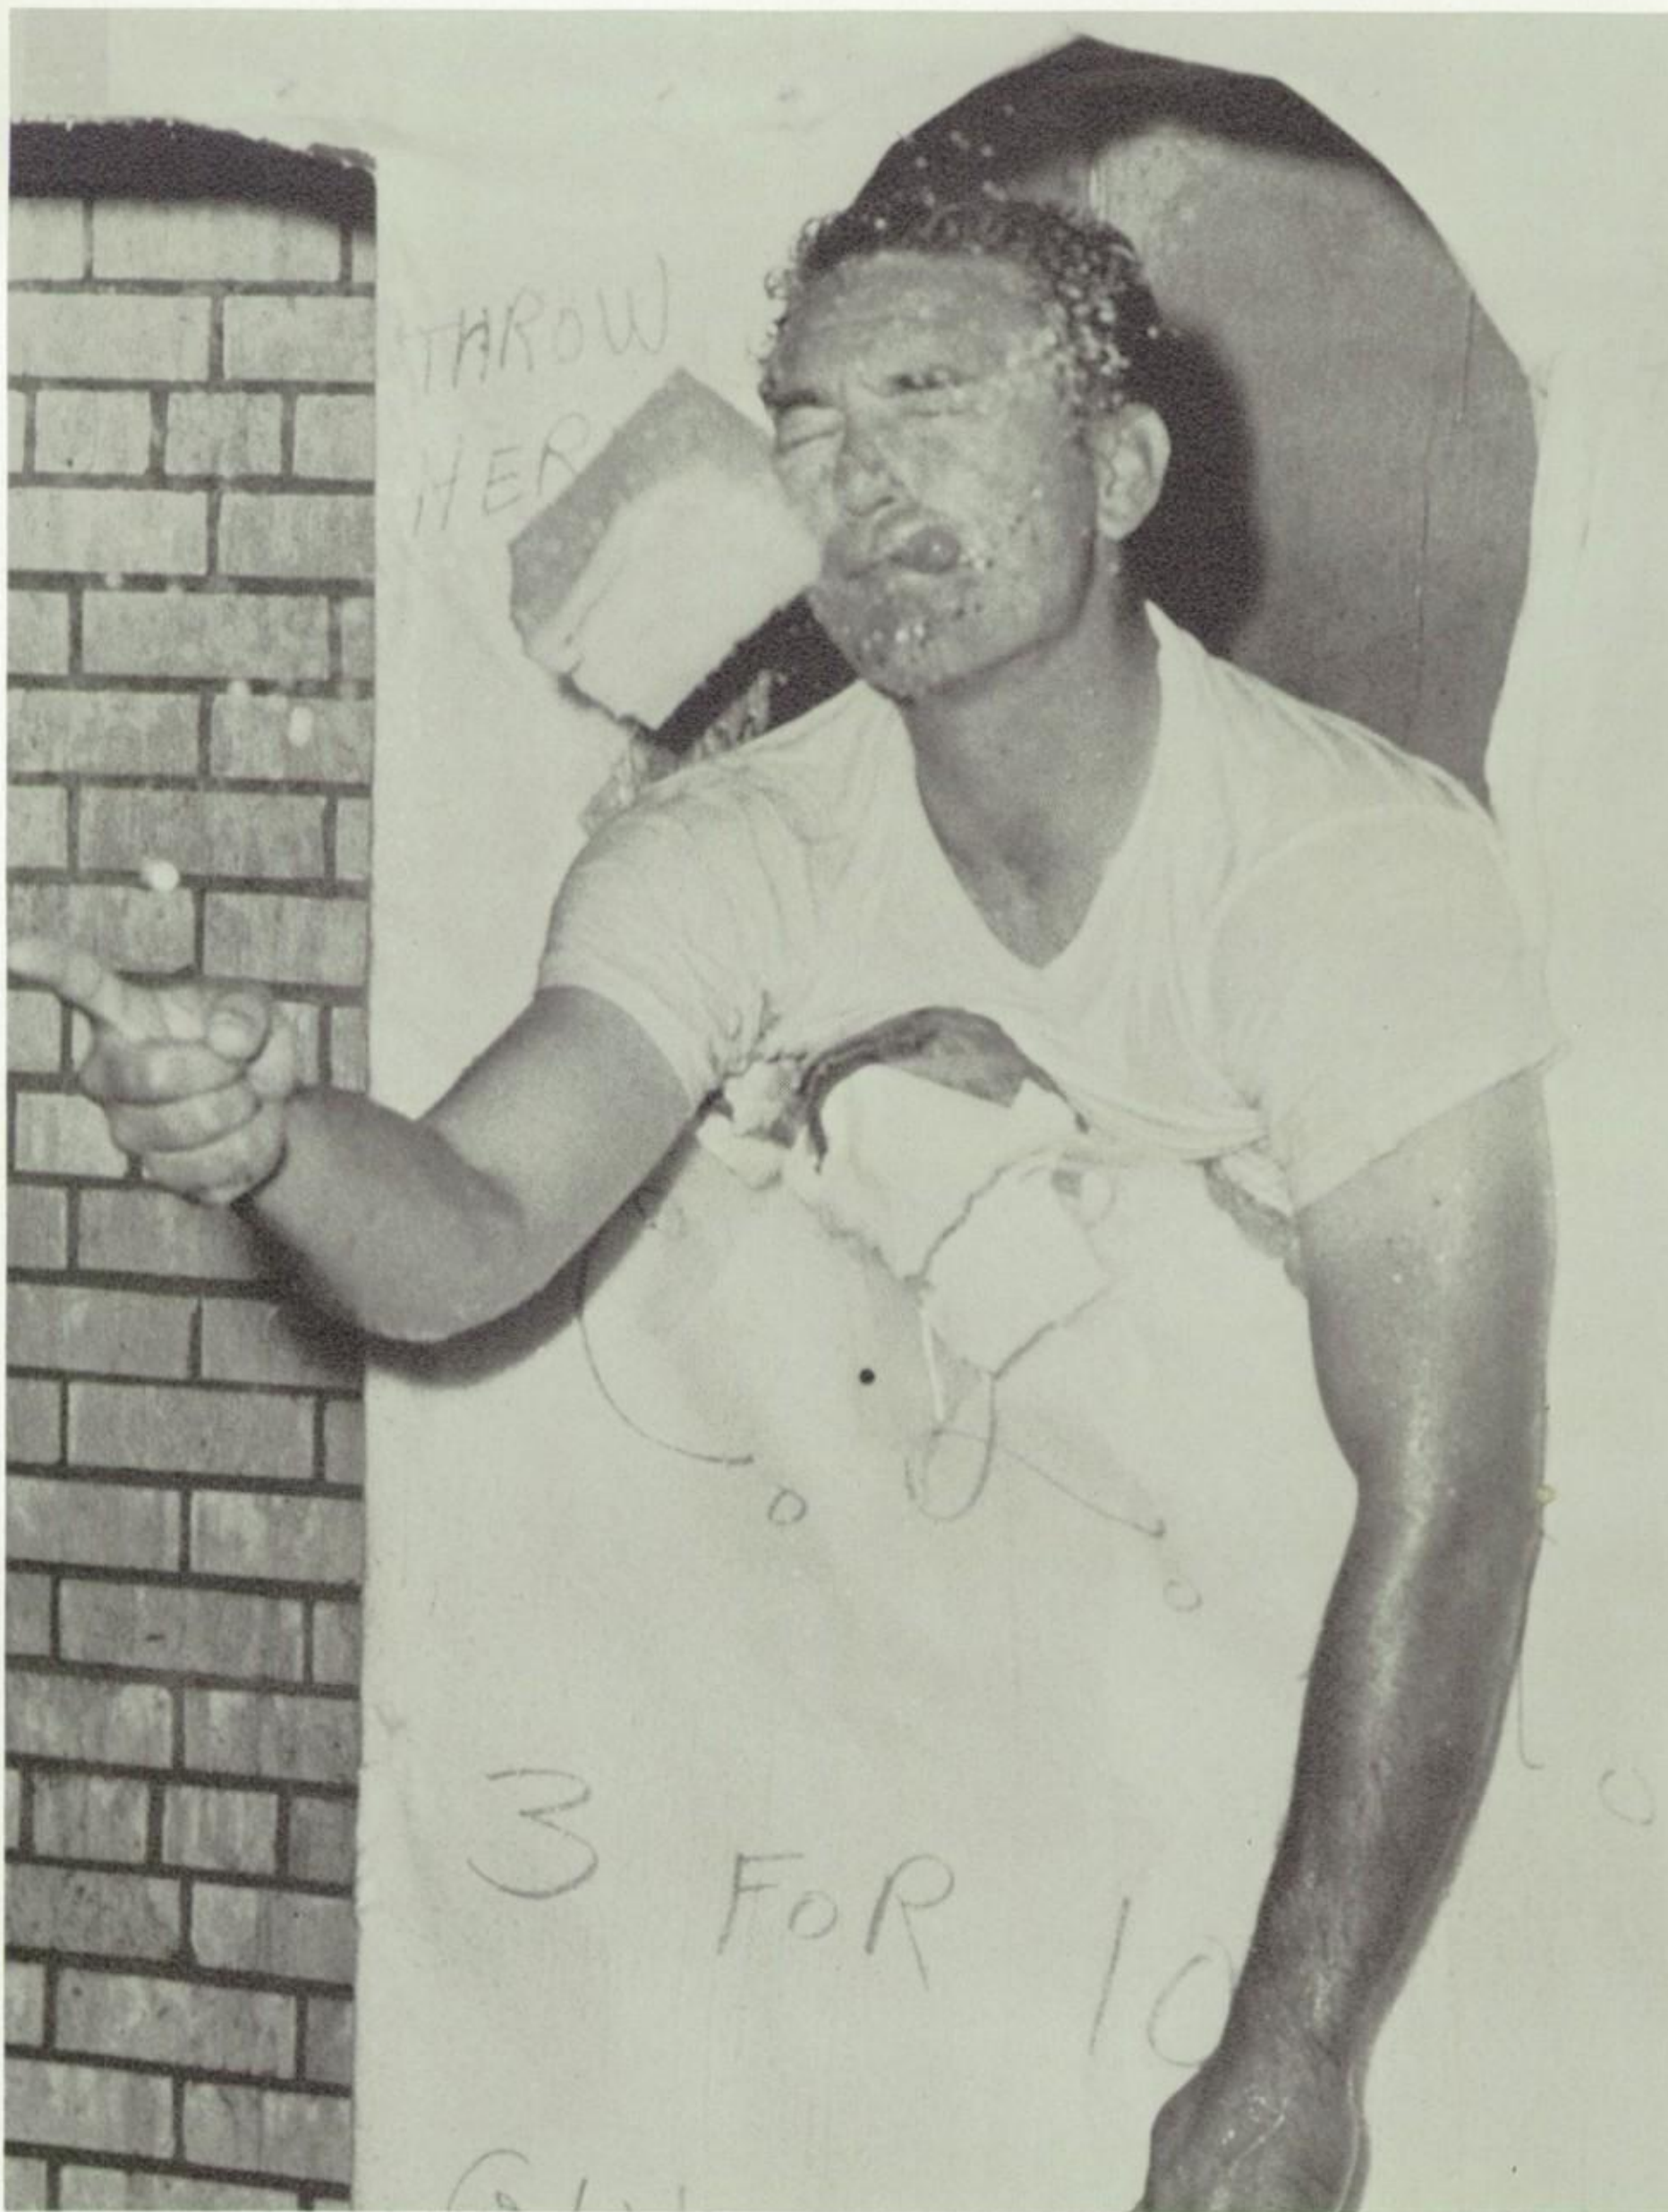

Haight-Ashbury District in San Francisco, or a semi-authentic reproduction thereof, was ushered into existence on October 28 at the annual Halloween Carnival. Inspired by the weird hippie culture, booths ranged from psychedelic light shows to op-art body-painting. And traditional projects such as the marriage booth took on the "Flower Power" flavor with the addition of beads, mind-bending colors, and the blaring beat of Jefferson Airplane. Clad in the "mod" gear consisting of mini-skirts, bell-bottoms, and flowered ties, Troopers proved their ability to become hippies for a few hours, only to return to "normalcy."

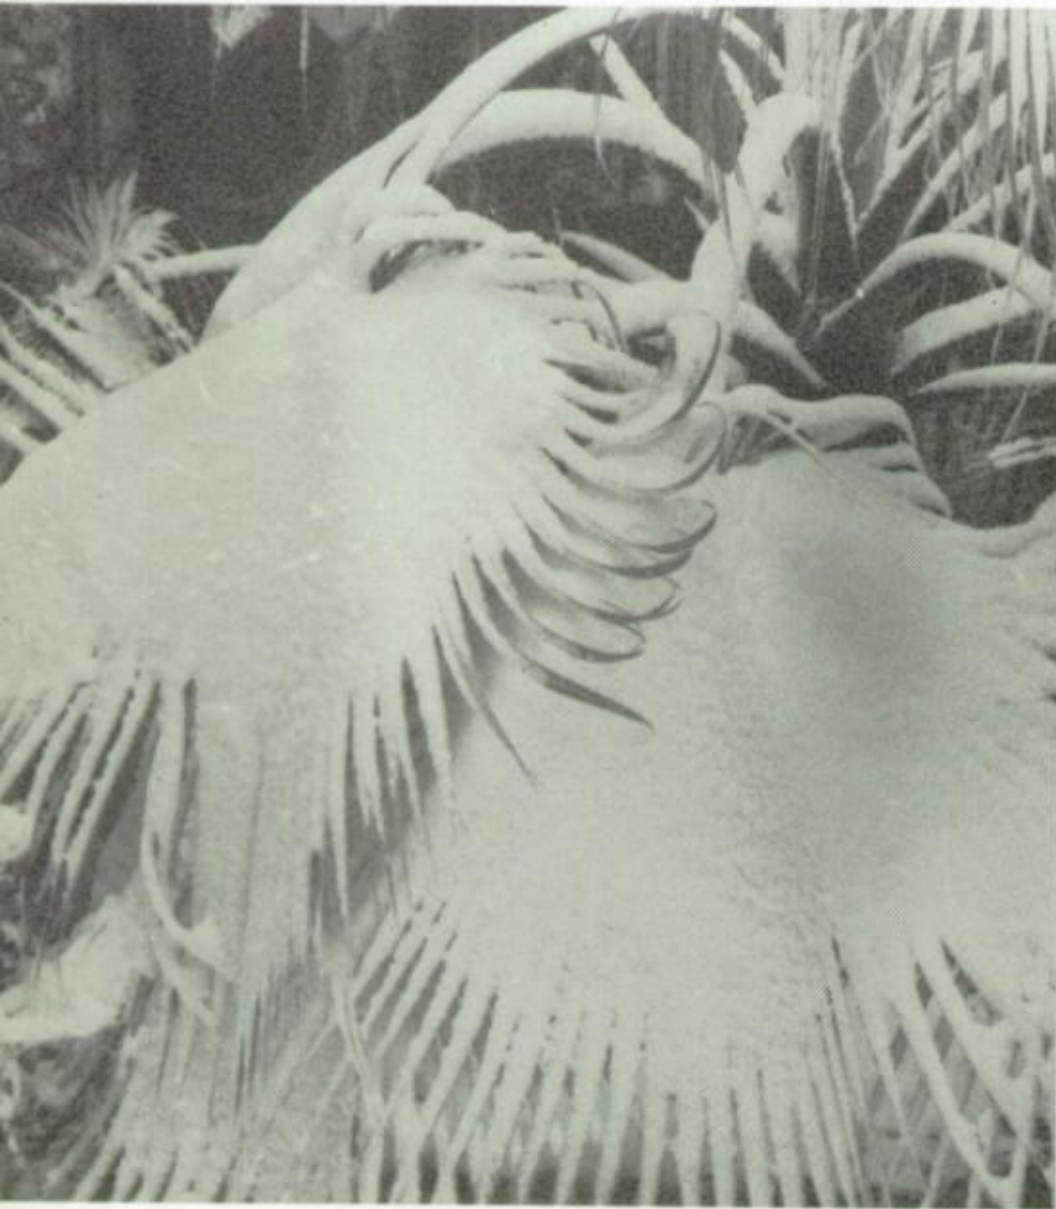

The more staid attenders, critical of teenybopper fads, chose other methods of entertainment. Customary sponge-throwing, cake-walking, and balloon-popping amusements proved a welcome relief as crowds thronged through the transformed cafeteria. Revitalized by popcorn and snow cones, Troopers concluded the successful evening at the senior's Hall Dance.

Christmas season highlighted by unexpected snowfall

The patios were snow-covered masterpieces. This palm looks a little out of place surrounded and decked in snow.

Sunny Southwest weather gave way to freezing temperatures and snowfall as the Christmas season was ushered into existence. With schools, streets, and stores closed, Troopers took full advantage of their unexpected holiday. Many braved the chill to go sledding on icy streets, while others chose to remain by warm fires. When the Troopers returned to school, decorations by the Art Department added to the Christmas excitement, and the familiar reindeer scene placed on the roof of the first hall proved to attract attention from all passers-by.

Troopers stayed busy during the season of good will. While the Canned Goods Drive progressed, Cavaliers and drama students rehearsed for their Christmas presentations. Bluejackets prepared a faculty breakfast.

A school full of witches provided the setting for the Senior Class Play Get Witch Quick. Each year Eastwood celebrates the Rodeo Parade with Western Day. On this special day during Rodeo Week, students dress in the manner of old pioneers or other old western inhabitants. Clothes vary from old blue jeans to fancy western attire. Teachers also keep in the spirit of the day by wearing western clothes.

Western Day is a Trooper Tradition. Four students are chosen by the Student Council at the end of the day for their choice of western attire. They are presented with tickets to the rodeo.

Western Day ended with the announcement of the best dressed Troopers. They are Jane Sigler, Todd Blomerth, Hal Tarrant, and Susan Lawrence.

Dr. Hanks, as superintendent of schools in the Ysleta Independent School District, serves as executive secretary and professional advisor of the Board of Trustees. It is his responsibility to administer the school system in conformity with the approved policies of the board and with the rules and regulations of state law and to coordinate all activities that comprise the educational program.

Dr. J. M. Hanks, Superintendent

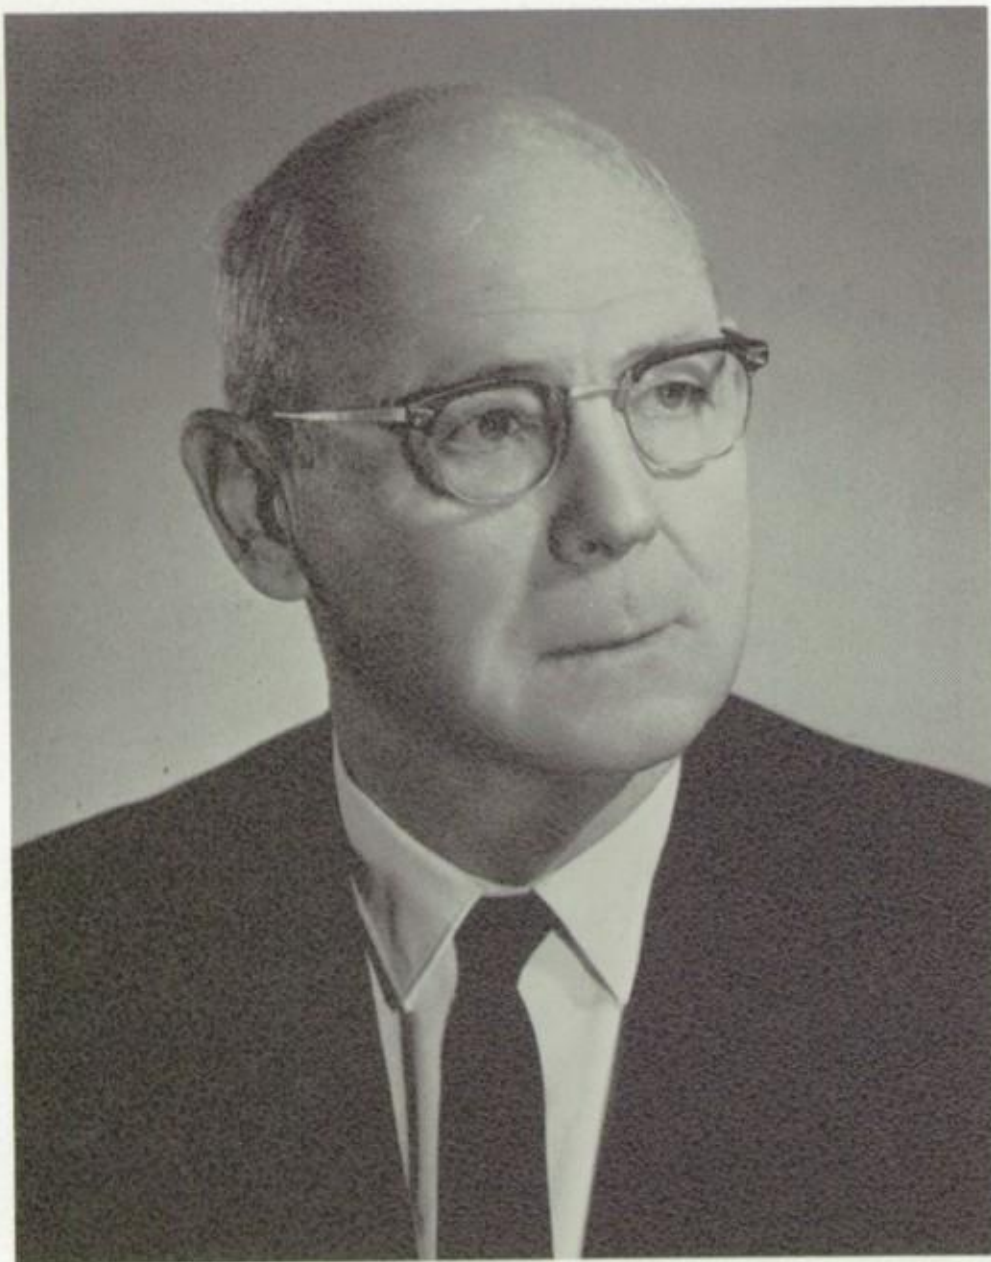

Dr. J. M. Hanks supervises Texas' tenth largest system

Tenth largest system in Texas, the Ysleta Independent School District includes twenty-three elementary schools and four high schools. One of the fastest growing systems in the nation, enrollment has increased from 12,589 in 1957 to 28,773 in 1967.

Located within the city limits of El Paso, it is one of two school districts within the city, and retains the name of Ysleta from the original settlement, which is the oldest town in Texas.

Under the direction of Dr. J.M. Hanks approved by the citizens within the district to build six new elementary schools, an academic and vocational high school, and additions to existing schools in order to meet anticipated growth.

Interest of the administrators and board members in the individual schools and the students and faculties of the schools has led to a close-knit, loyal, energetic school system.

Mr. Wafer, as assistant superintendent, performs such duties as supervision and administration of the maintenance of buildings and of personnel in the maintenance department, the school census, requisition for instructional and maintenance supplies, and repairs, along with other duties as assigned by the superintendent.

Serving his third year as principal of Eastwood High School is Mr. Bob Bradley. During his three years here, he has gained the respect and admiration due a man of his character from students and teachers alike.

Seen at all school functions, such as sporting events, dances, coronations, presentations, and assemblies, he is also seen assuming less enjoyable tasks necessary to the function of the school.

As administrator in charge of all activity, he must deal with the students of the school, as well as other administrators. His relationships with these people are full of understanding and true concern. Anyone coming in contact with Mr. Bradley soon realizes the wisdom, capability, and humor that he possesses.

During this year, Mr. Bradley has seen and supervised many changes in the "Home of the Troopers." An entire wing has been added; the offices have been enlarged; new library facilities have been added; the parking lots have been enlarged; new sidewalks have been laid across the campus; and a cannon has been loaned to the school, contributing much to its Trooper heritage.

Knowing that Mr. Bradley is behind his students, that he gives of himself freely, makes them as proud as they are.

Principal Bob Bradley greets foreign exchange student Duilia Zamberlan as her American family, Becky Bowden and Mr. Jim Bowden, look on.

High school counselors act as an important bridge between the adult world and the students. Counselors guide each student during his high school career.

As freshmen, pupils are advised of the plan to follow and courses to take. Then, as juniors, they are asked to begin planning for after-graduation life.

Seniors receive special attention in their last preparatory year, and they're urged to make application to colleges.

Thanks to the three counselors: Mr. William Casarez, Mrs. Paula Turner, and Mrs. Patricia Self, students are prepared for the life to be found upon leaving the sheltered high school world.

Assistant principals this year, Mr. Lee Dodson and Mr. Bill Crow, have found a special place in the students' hearts.

Disciplinarian Mr. Lee Dodson is likened to Robin Hood. He excites fear from wrong-doers, and friendliness from those innocent of any school crime. Mr. Dodson is at the same time foreboding and pleasant.

His humor ever present, Mr. Dodson, last year's recipient of the Salute dedication, is considered a friendly, helpful connection available in the office to all students.

Mr. Bill Crow, in charge of student activities, appears to students as a source of information and advice. He sponsors Student Council, Club Council, and organizes the school calendar.

Every club must confer with Mr. Crow before getting the "go-ahead" to confront the busy principal with any problem.

Helping students with their problems are the jobs of both assistant principals—well done in student opinion.

Struggling through interruptions, assembly schedules, and snow days, the Eastwood faculty strives to prepare students for a useful life as educated citizens. Their dedication is not limited to teaching one course in one classroom, for each offers guidance to his pupils on a friendship basis. Despite lesson plans which must be made, and papers which need to be graded, faculty members find time to sponsor clubs, investigate new teaching techniques, chaperone dances, and plan field trips.

As a result of the great advances made in almost every field today, education is one of the most important factors needed for success.

Men are now using technological knowledge to their utmost advantage. The moon has been reached, hearts have been transplanted from one human being to another, teenagers are professors in colleges, and man can now travel at close to the speed of light.

Students must realize that they need the knowledge their high school teachers give them to make it in the "cold, cruel world" outside.

Cafeteria staff and Usually taken for granted by students are the hard working cafeteria and custodial staffs. In addition to keeping the school in good shape, the custodians are often asked to help teachers prepare special projects. Their job is never done as they must warm the school on cold winter mornings and remain late in the afternoon preparing for the next school day.

The cafeteria staff strives to please finicky students' appetites by offering a variety of nutritious meals. They also help clubs prepare for dinners.

A familiar sight is Mr. Wiley Welsh, head of maintenance. Here he repaints vents of a heater after repairing a hole in it.

Custodians who help to keep the school a cleaner and better place are; bottom row: Jim Thompson, Juan Castro, Cecilio Rios, Lorenzo Barbas, Ruben

by '68 seniors to be put to use after graduation

Senior class sponsors, Mrs. Mary Dennis, Mrs. Paula Turner, Mrs. Martha Harrison, and Mr. Maurice Bartram, discuss plans for the senior gift to the school. Not pictured is Mrs. Gloria Oldner.

Senior class officers are: Jody Richardson, secretary; David Perilli, president; Norma Maddox, Student Council Representative; Sue Hockeborn, treasurer; Becky Bowden, vice-president; and John Pierpont, Student Council Representative. Elected in the fall, these students have worked hard for the class their last year.

Steve Juen and Jody Richardson were elected class favorites this year by the Senior Class.

In addition to being Senior Favorite, Steve Juen is also Most Handsome. Capturing the top senior honor, he has also been selected Most Popular Boy by the student body. Yahna Phi, senior girls' club, further honored Steve by naming him their beau.

Serving as president of ELA this year, Steve has been active in athletics. He lettered in football last year, as a junior, and began playing varsity baseball as a sophomore, when he was chosen Sophomore Favorite. As a freshman, Steve was chosen Optimist Student.

Jody, a member of Yahna Phi for four years, reigned as Military Queen, and was chosen a Homecoming Duchess. She is Lt. Col. in Sponsors, president of Quill and Scroll, secretary of the Senior Class, and vice-president of Club Council. She represented Quill and Scroll at E-in-E, and Eastwood at Irvin-in-Orbit.

She has been on Sabre and Salute staffs after taking journalism last year. Last year she was also named Who's Who in German, represented Troopers Alliance, of which she was vice-president, to E-in-E, and was a member of Blue Jackets.

Sophomore Princess to E-in-E, she was Most Beautiful Girl when a freshman. Student Council and Trooperettes were her activities this year.

This being the Seniors' last year, they received the privilege of putting on the Senior Play, the Senior Follies, and the Senior Shindig. The entire student body enjoyed the Senior Prophecy, presented through Sabre. The Senior Breakfast is one of the last times the class is officially together before graduating.

Seniors worked hard to make money for the gift to the school through the Hall Dance at the Carnival, the Senior Play, and the Senior Shindig.

JUNIORS

Junior Favorites

Shelley Phillips

are highlights of active, prosperous junior year

Junior class favorites for 1967-68 are Shelley Phillips and Juan Borrego. Shelley was freshman cheerleader, B-team cheerleader last year, and is now a varsity cheerleader. She was Freshman Favorite and Sophomore Class treasurer. She is in FTA, FHA, and is golf team sweetheart. Anehta Sesea and Epsilon Phi Sigma are also part of her extracurricular activities.

In his freshman year, Juan Borrego was on the B-team football and freshman basketball teams. As a sophomore, he was promoted to varsity football, and was on the varsity track team. He became a member of the Lettermen's Club, and was Sophomore Favorite last year. Still on varsity football, this year Juan is Detinu's beau.

The juniors' year has been full of anticipation. Senior rings arrived earlier this year than in the past. Class members participated in a raffle to raise money for the Junior-Senior Prom. They also held an after-game dance, with the "Smokestack Banana" playing, as a money-raising project for the Prom, which was held at Rodeway Inn.

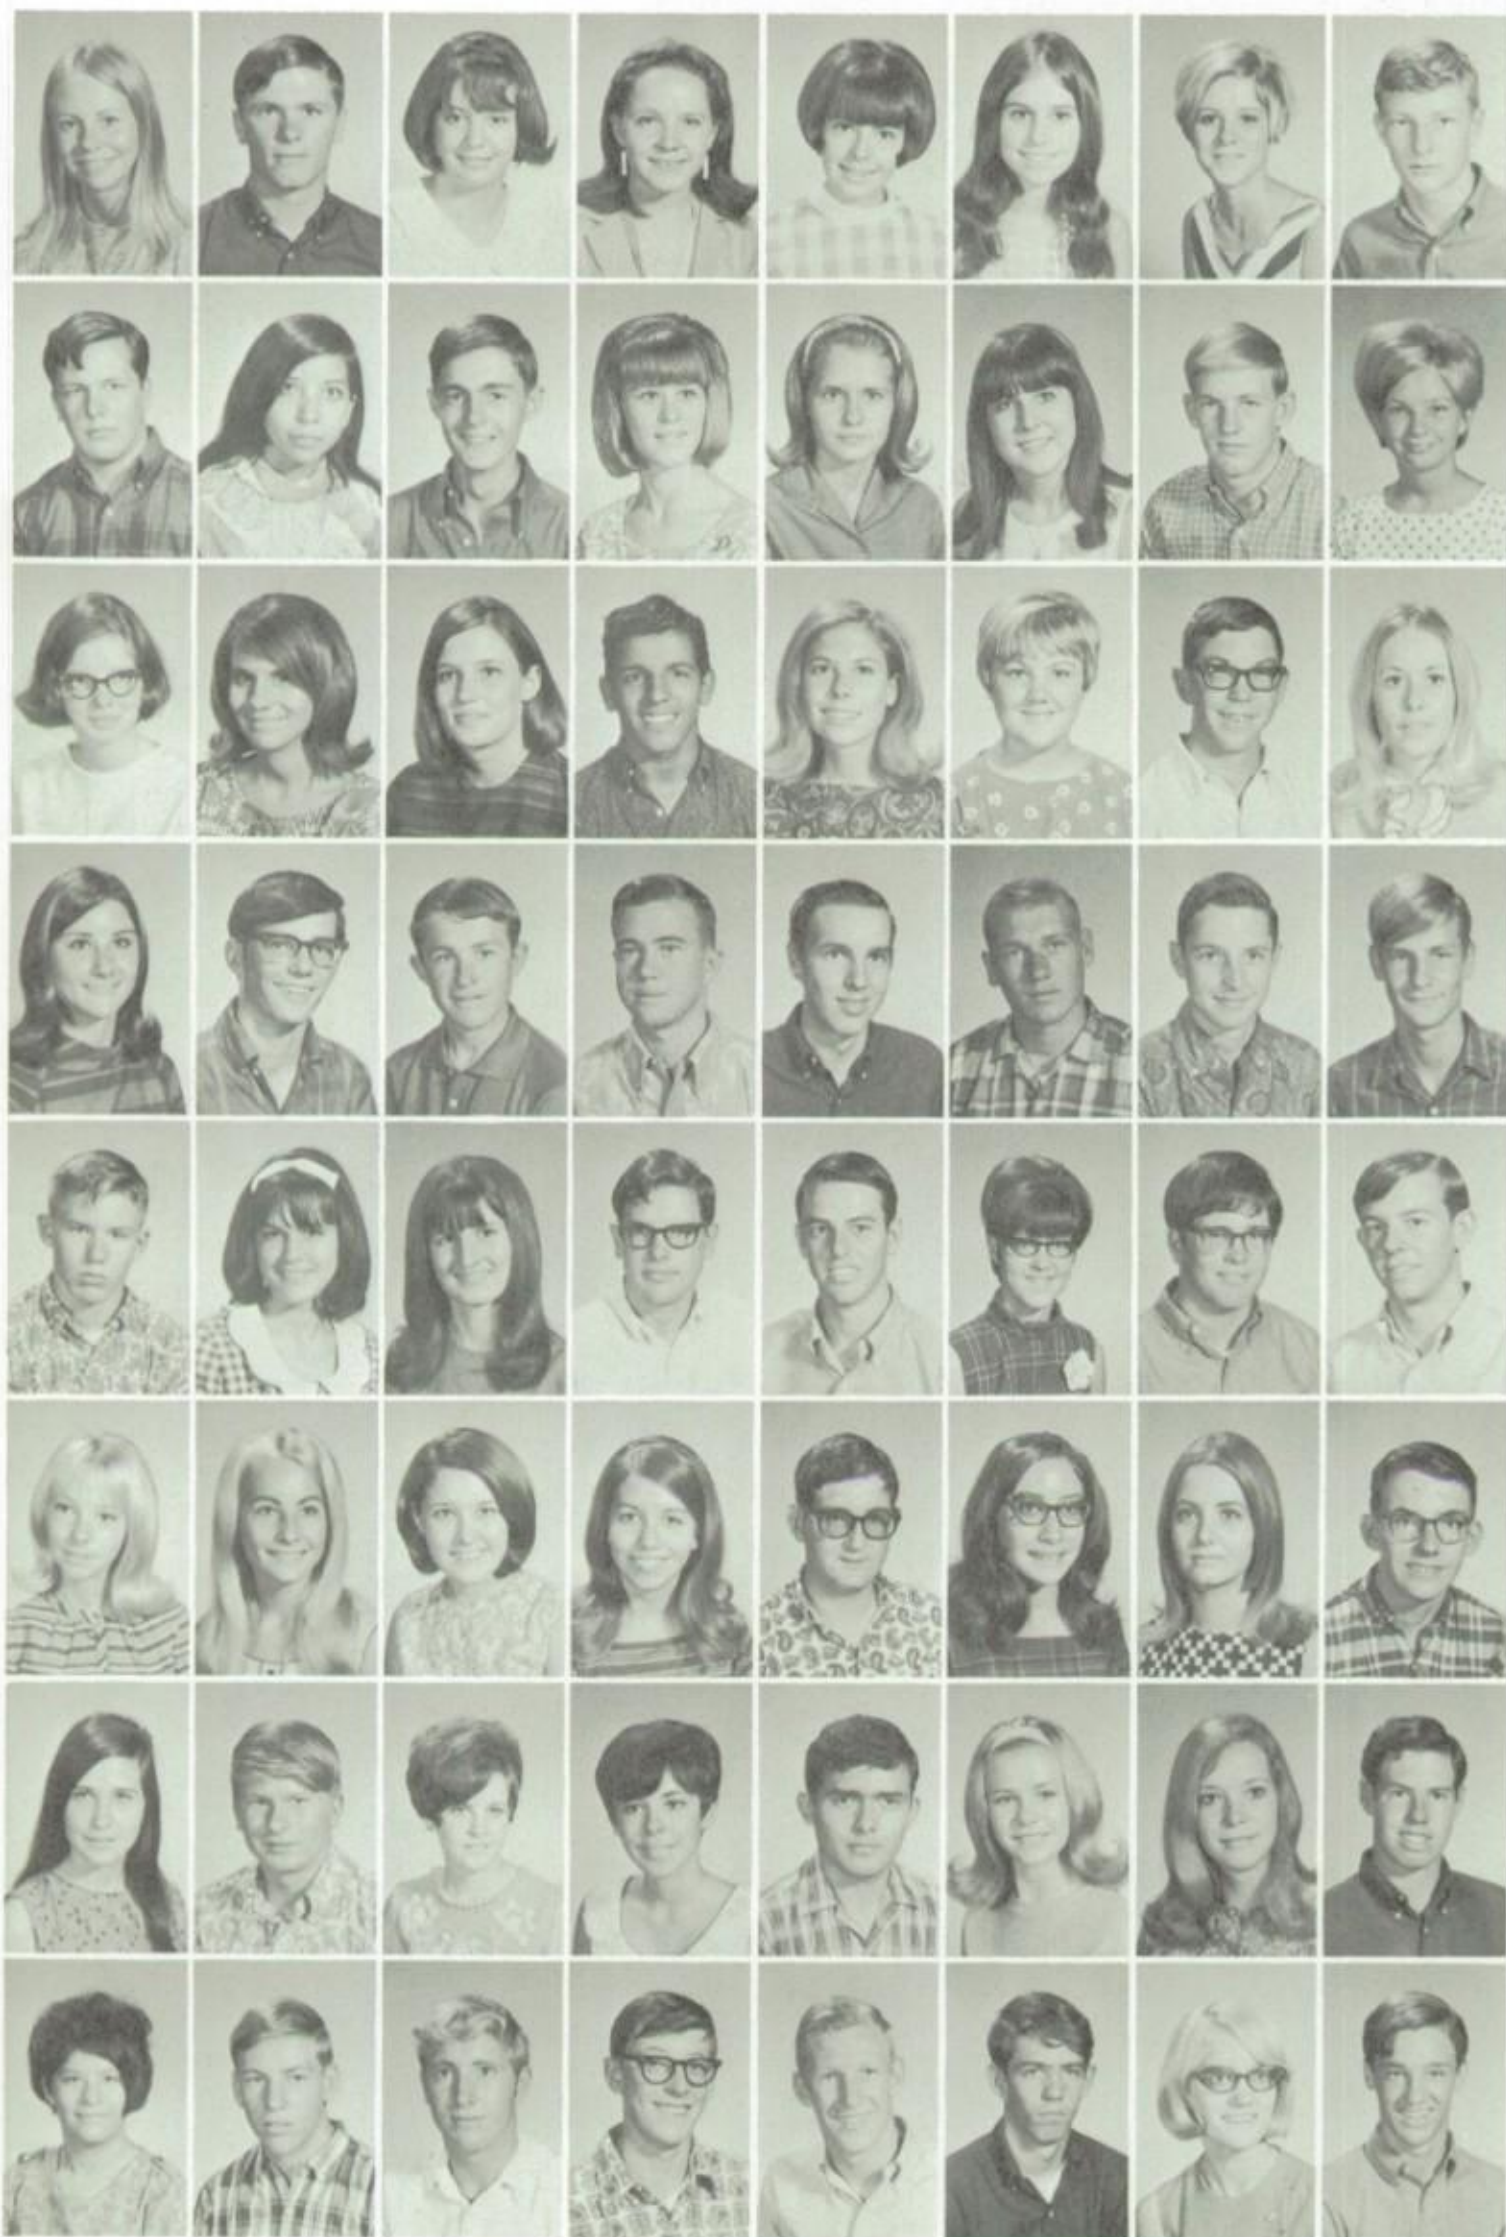

Active junior class officers are Patty Meek, secretary; Kitten Cecil, treasurer; Cindy Root, president; Patsy Wright, vice-president; Brenda Boles and Pam Clum, Student Council representatives.

Class sponsors are Mrs. Jean Payne, Mrs. Judie Winters, Mr. Marshall Nelson, and Mrs. Betty McAlpine.

Sophomore Favorites

Debbie Folsom

Tim Edmond

as they take the honor for their second year in a row

Sophomore class officers are Peggy Dellinger, secretary; Donna DeBusk, Student Council Representative; Sharon Perkins, president; Debbie White, treasurer; and Beth Fipps, Student Council Representative. These girls have been active in raising money for their class; one of their projects was a raffle.

Chosen as the sophomore favorites are Debbie Folsom and Tim Edmond. Debbie has been popular throughout both her years here, as last year she was a freshman cheerleader, E-in-E princess, and was judged first runner-up in the beauty contest. This year she has added quite a few more honors as she is head B-team cheerleader, B-team Football Sweetheart, and is a new member of Epsilon Phi Sigma. She is in Entre Nous and Brush and Palette for her second year, and was chosen Who's Who in art. Debbie was also selected as an Optimist Student this year.

Tim Edmond returned his freshman year from McLean, Virginia. There he played football, basketball, and was on the varsity track team. This year, he has maintained his interest in sports, as he is playing B-team basketball and baseball. He also escorted Nancy Pearce at the Homecoming ceremonies.

The Sophomore Class won the Canned Goods Drive for the second year in a row. They made money through a Fortune Telling Booth and a General Store at the Halloween Carnival. In addition, they raffled a giant stuffed bear. Their spirit was exhibited at pep rallies, as they won the "Spirit Stick."

Mr. Charles Guthrie, Mrs. Carolyn Collinsworth, Mrs. Ruby Sherwood, and Mr. George Garner are the Sophomore Class sponsors. They meet in Mr. Dodson's office to plan strategy for the Canned Goods Drive, which the class won.

Class of '71 looks enthusiastically toward their future

Freshman Favorites

John Cullers

Valerie Phillips

as they begin their climb toward a higher education

At their initial meeting, freshmen elected their class favorites, Valerie Phillips and John Cullers. Valerie is the vice-president of the Freshman Class and was chosen as a Yahna Phi "little sister." John led his class as their president. He also participated in freshmen football and basketball.

As the largest class to enter Eastwood, the freshmen experienced many firsts, such as electing a Homecoming princess, a beauty contestant, and an E-in-E princess. They also enjoyed their pep rallies, including class competition, in which they won the "spirit stick".

Among the array of activities for the year, the freshmen sponsored a booth in the Halloween Carnival. The booth, Paint Splash, consisted of splashing paint on a spinning piece of poster board. Another activity in which the class took part was the annual Canned Goods Drive. In this contest the class placed second.

Freshman class sponsors Mrs. Molly Jameson, Mrs. Penny Elder, Mrs. Peggie Birkhead, Mrs. Linda Gordy, and Mrs. Dee Dee Jones confer in the library about the freshman Halloween Carnival booth. Led by their sponsors, the frosh found big success with their paint splash.

Supporting the Troopers as well as the Junior Class are the main objectives of the junior girls in Anehta Sesea. The club had several money raising projects, from which proceeds were donated to the school fund. Among their projects were bake sales and car washes. They had a booth at the Halloween Carnival and also helped with the junior booth. Members took an active part in Homecoming festivities, and kept their undying spirit throughout the year in all of the sports activities. Anehta Sesea also played an important role in the canned goods drive. Sponsor for this year is Miss Meta Stewart.

Yahna Phi is a senior girls' club which has been established at Eastwood for four years. Having taken in "little sisters," Yahna Phi will never fade out of existence. The girls have been an active part of all school functions and have also shown undying spirit. The club has had various projects which include bake sales and car washes. Yahna Phi held the car decoration contest at Homecoming, held the "Burning of the E," and also helped with the after-the-game dance. The club had a booth at the Carnival as well as assisting at the senior booth. Yahna Phi held their annual Christmas tea for the faculty members and were also active during the Canned Goods Drive. The club started a tradition by holding a Mardi Gras, to which they invited the other girls' clubs.

Because of their superior and outstanding service to the school for the 1966-67 school year, the club was honored with the title of "Club of the Year."

The sponsor for the year is Mrs. Gloria Oldner. Beau is Steve Juen.

Beau, Steve Juen, burns traditional "E" at Homecoming rally.

Venite Fidelis is a sophomore girls' club which was newly formed this year for the purposes of boosting sophomore spirit and especially boosting the B-team. The club had several projects this year which included adopting a needy family, having car washes and bake sales, and making spirit signs for all of the sports. The club had a booth at the Carnival as well as helping with the sophomore booth and also helped in the collecting of canned goods at Christmas.

The sponsor for this year is Mrs. Deedee Jones and the beau chosen for the year is Danny Adams. The club was led through a very successful year by the president.

Entre Nous is a spirit club composed of sophomore girls, with the primary concern of boosting the B-team. The girls made posters at Homecoming welcoming the Exes and helped decorate for the dance. At Christmas the girls held a tea for the "big sisters" who started the club. They all purchased gold windbreakers and blue skirts chased gold windbreakers and blue skirts which were worn each week to the pep rallies. Entre Nous was invited to the annual Mardi Gras given by Yahna Phi and their "little sisters."

David Coon was chosen as the Entre Nous beau. Mrs. Marilyn Steele is the sponsor.

Entre Nous members display signs to "Welcome Exes"

Amitie is a sophomore and freshman girls' club sponsored by the Y.W.C.A. of El Paso. Amitie took part in the annual World Fellowship Week. The girls also helped collect canned goods at Christmas and adopted a needy family. Among their projects were car washes and bake sales. The girls helped in the program to beautify El Paso and also took part in all of the other activities sponsored by the Y.W.C.A. When the girls of Amitie are juniors, they are eligible to become members of the junior and senior club, Corinthians.

Les Jeunes Filles is a girls' club in its second year. It consists of junior and senior girls. The club was engaged in several activities during the year, including decorating for Homecoming and helping with the senior booth at the Carnival. Les Jeunes Filles inducts new junior members each spring in order to keep the club active at Eastwood.

Sponsors of Les Jeunes Filles are Mrs.

Susan Parrish and Miss Linda Gordy. Officers are: Sherri Moore, president; Becky Caldwell, vice-president; Sharon Breton, treasurer; Cathy Crow, secretary; Del Wright, chaplain; Patti Moorhead, historian. The club elected David Kelly as their beau and Mr. Dale Glaze as their faculty beau.

Brenda,
 It has been great knowing you. I was a little in a hurry it didn't work out with the rest of the crew
 but there's all other that's of luck in the future. God Bless

Brenda,
 I can't tell you how great it's been this year & I'm glad that I finally met you. Best Wishes to a sweet girl with a personality to match. Always,
 Donna

Brenda,
 You are a real sweet kid. I have enjoyed having you in class the last two years. Jay Martin

Brenda,
I think you
a kitchen girl.
See ya next year I hope

Editors' Message

Susan Thrasher

We have communicated; the finished book will next be seen in its final form. As we sit anxiously awaiting for our publication's arrival, we become aware of those who made 1967-68 Salute a reality.

To our sponsor, Mrs. Daisy Meacham, we owe a special thanks. Not only has she been entirely cooperative and enthusiastic, but her remarkable personality has brightened each staff member's life.

Pictures make a yearbook and we are therefore most appreciative of our fine photography staff, and aid given them by ex-Trooper Bill Dobberstein. We are also grateful to Franco, Berroteran, Popular, and Fine Arts studios, along with Mr. Bill Moore.

Willing to labor until midnight on Friday nights, we would most like to recognize our staff, a staff that worked and worked and worked. And, last but not least, we thank Mr. Frank Goss who was with us all the way.

Brenda,

Well here goes one whole year as good friends and lets make it a couple of other years. So far we have shared problems and happiness of each other. (I hope that doesn't sound gushy) I hope you will get all the happinesses you want but of course you have to work for it. Some how its hard writing it this way. I hope we see each other alot during the summer like going to dances parties, movies etc. I hope also you find the kind of boy you want. Not one like you first like him then you dont. You understand. I'm sure that a boy could find alot of good qualities about you. So ~~be~~ patient OK. It takes time you know. You've had some experiences which werent too great. So I hope you learned how to control that kind of boy.
Stay sweet and cute (dont cut your hair) I will always remember you for your smile!
Wonder about you some!
Good Luck

Brenda,
Thank a lot for the information during the year, and I really appreciated
it. Well lots of luck and I hope ya find a new boyfriend

Tom Greener

BREDDA,
I'm so glad I got to know you this year.
You are a very sweet girl.
With a personality to match.

Love,

WADEY

Brenda,

You're great but you

kinda get under someone's skin. Seriously stay as sweet as ever. Have fun at Eastwood next year.

Love Tom '68"

BREDDA

Well girl the year's almost over! I've enjoyed knowing you this year. We've had some pretty good times together. This summer is going to be great! I hope I'll see you. In fact I know I will. It's Ronnie on Dunsmuir
don't it? Get it.
"Check ya date!"
